SILVER MEN SORRY.

They Feel Deeply Disappointed Over the Issue of Bonds.

CARLISLE HITS THE WHITE METAL.

Brock Beckwith Has the Appointment as Collector.

RISSELL TURNS VERY FEW OUT.

There Are More Republicans Than Democrats in the Postoffice Departmet at Washington Right Now.

Washington, January 17 .- (Special.)-The silver men are very much exercised over the announcement on the part of Secretary Carlisle that he intends to issue bonds be tween now and the 1st of February under the existing law. They declare that if it is proper for him to issue bonds now it would we been proper for him to have done so last spring, and thereby to have avoided the panic. The necessity for a bond issue now, they say, is not as great as it was then. If it is his idea to raise money to continue the operation of the government, that can be done by the coinage of the silver bullion or of the seigniorage now in the treasury. Certificates could be issued against this bullion, which would be available at once. Should Mr. Carlisle, however, ssue bonds, as he says he will do immediately, it will be another blow at silver.

The resolution of Mr. Bailey, of Texas declaring that there is no warrant in the resumption act for the issue of bonds for any other purpose than the redemption of reenbacks, has much support in the house. and Mr. Bailey thinks he may secure its adoption. The object of Mr. Bailey's resolution is, of course, to prevent Mr. Carlisle the resources of the treasury by the use of the surplus silver. If the surplus silver were used and relief were not foun? then, of course, the silver men would vote for any measure of relief which they thought necessary to preserve the government from default. But they are determined, if possible, to force the government into the elircular:

"Treasury Department, Office of Secretary, Washington, January 17, 1894,—By virtue of the authority contained in the act, entitled 'An act to provide for the resumption that the second of the second January 14. of specie payments,' approved January 14, 1875, the secretary of the treasury hereby offers for public subscription, an issue of bonds of the United States, to the amount bonds of the United States, to the amount of $50,000,000 in each, registered or coupon form, in denominations of $50 and upwards, redeemable in coin at the pleasure of the government after ten years from the date of their issue and bearing interest, payable quarterly in coin, at the rate of 5 per cent per annum. Proposals for the whole or any part of these bonds will be received at the treasury department, office of the secretary, until 12 o'clock noon, of the day of February 1st. Proposals should state the amount of bonds desired, whether reg'sthe amount of bolids desired, whether teastered or coupon, and the premium, which the subscriber proposes to pay, the place where it is desired that the bonds shall be delivered and the offer, whether that of the treasurer of the United States or an excitate treasurer of the United States. assistant treasurer of the United States. where it will be most convenient for the scription. will be added.
"All proposals should be addressed to the secretary of the treasury, Washington, D. C., and should be distinctly maked 'proposals for subscriptions to 5 per cent bonds.'
"J. G. CARLISLE, Secretary."

What Senator Allison Says. Senator Allison, member of the finance committee, in speaking of the present financial difficulties, says that it would have been the best policy to have adopted the proposition which was made a part of the appropriation bill last February and then the difficulty under which the treasury now. iculty under which the treasury now ors would have been avoided. Referring to the statement of Senator Voorhees made yesterday, the Iowa senator said it was not the sentiment of the committee, and yet there might be an understanding that it might represent the ideas of a majority of the committee.

committee, and might also mean that action would be taken by the committee is conceded," said he, "that the discussion in the senate would take six weeks, and that the secretary would have to issue bonds any way. The secretary did not come to us-meaning the after the house had been buttoned up for a month with the tariff bill and could take no action. What ought to have been done was to take up the bond question before the tariff and settled that which was most pressing."

pressing."

The appoint ent of representative Dearmond, democrat, of Missouri, who was today designated by Speaker Crisp to take the place of J. R. Fellows on the judiciary committee, was determined on before the bond issue was raised. Yet Mr. Dearmond shares the views of Chairman Culberson and other against the legality of the use of the proceedings of a sale of bonds, except for the redemption of greenbacks. This makes the democratic membership of the judiciary committee almost or quite a unit against the bond policy.

Turning the Committee Down. The ways and means committee was turned down in one of the schedules of the tariff bill today. The committee brought in an amendment providing that the section of the tariff bill placing wool on the free list should go into effect on the 1st of August, and the section reducing the tariff on woolen goods should go into effect on the Ist of December. The members of the com-mittee explained that their reason for this mittee explained that the was to give manufacturers of woolen goods was to be sold under time for making up goods to be sold under the new tariff duties after wool was made free. Tom Johnson led the opposition to this amendment on the part of the gemo-crats and managed to get sufficient democrats with him to defeat it. Johnson then offered an amendment providing that wool should be placed on the free list immediately after the passage of the bill, and this amendment was carried. This is the first backset to the members of the committee, and they are very much disa)pointed at the action of the house. There was a long debate over it and one which was somewhat heated at times. This action means that there are many democrats in the house who are not satisfied with certain features of the bill, and that it is possible that several amendments will be adopted. It all depends upon whether the republicans will vote with the kicking demcrats for the amendments they offer.

Very much regret is expressed among the outhern contingent in congress at the news of the death of ex-Representative Forney, of Alabama, who died at his home in Jacksonville, Ala. General Forney served a term of twenty years in congress and only retired at the beginning of this congress. He was one of the ablest and most popular men who ever held a seat in the house.

The senate is devoting its time now to speech-making on the repeal of the federal election laws. The debate will probably be long and tedious.

The southern men who have all along opposed an issue of bonds are very much disappointed at Mr. Carlisle's action in issuing onds. The responsibility is, however, upon the administration, and not upon congress. The administration people say it was necessary; that it was either bonds or a bankrupt treasury. With receipts running ten millions a month behind expenditures, they claim immediate action was necessary.

Brock Beckwith Nominated. Brock Beckwith has at last knocked the persimmon. He was nominated today for collector of the port of Savannah. The nomination, of course, will be confirmed at once and Mr. Beckwith will probably assume the duties of his office before the ex-

THE DAY IN THE SENATE. Discussing the Civil Service Law-The Federal Elections Bill.

Washington, Tanuary 17.—The civil service law and the way it is administered was discussed in the senate today. Senator Berry took exception to the policy of allowing the fourth class postmasters to remain in office in order to carry out the spirit of the law. Senator Gallinger, of New Hampshire, criticised the law and said it ought to be epealed. Senator Hoar, of Massachusetts, defended the law and Senator Cockrell, of Missouri said that it was a good law if carried ou according to its intent and purpose.

The federal elections bill consumed ple of hours, and Senator Mandler, of New Hampshire, tried to secure an amendmen candidate for congress the privilege of ap-pointing a watcher for each precinct to guard his interests in the regis ration and guard his interests in the registration and the election, but the vote was not reached. Senator Gray, of Delaware, tried to get the republicans to name a day when final action should be taken on the bill, but the request was evaded, and Senator Frye

Lieutenant Swineburn was the only witness before the senate subcommittee investigating the Hawaiian question today He is the officer who had active commind of the American troops on shore in Honolulu at the time of the revolution one year ago, and his testimony is considered important, as it pears upon some points which have been in dispute and to which much impor-tance is attached. He was questioned con-cepting the time of landing the location of tance is attached. He was questioned con-cerning the time of landing, the location of the troops in Arion hall and the time of the surrender of the station house. He was also asked to explain what troops chanced to be located at Arion hall, and was re-minded of the charge made by Mr. Blount and the friends of Queen Liliuokalani that of all places this was the one best calcuof all places this was the one best calculated to serve the purposes of the provisional government, being located just across the street from the government building, where they would prove a menace to the queen's forces. It is understood that Mr. Swineburn admitted that a more favorable place could not have been selected, and that he had, previous to the landing, advised that some other place be chosen. In the main, however, his testimony corroborated the statements of Minister Stevens and the officers of the provisional government. He contended that there had not been any conspiracy involving the naval force.

Mr. Swineburn was also reminded of the discrepancies in the statements concerning Continued on Fourth Column Second Page.

HAS HIS DAILY TALK.

On Behalf of the Club, He Requests Everybody to Come.

NO RICHBURG AFFAIR, HE SAYS. Maybe the Scrap Will Take Place in s Balloon, as a Guarantee Against Military Interference Is Given. Jacksonville, Fla., January 17.—The Associated Press has been furnished the following: "The Duval Athletic Club make this, their final and most positive announcement, that the Corbett-Mitchell contest will take place on January 25, 1894. Reports have been sent out that Governor H. L. Mitchell has ordered troops to Jacksonville for the sole purpose of suppressing the contest. Notwithstanding these reports, the club reiterates its past assertions and for the past week has been arranging for an emergency of this kind.

"Should the troops be sent here, while the club does not believe that any violence would be participated in by them, yet we will not subject our patrons to the slightest danger of any kind. So thorough and complete are our arrangements that should an emergency of any kind arise on the morning. ing of the 25th, we are prepared to handle 6.0. people with the greatest convenience.

"This will be no Richburg affair, where the people were subjected to a long, tedrous and hot ride, but it will be done as quickly and conveniently as though it occurred in the arena now ready for the contest. Once more, we say to all friends and lovers of boxing, if you are in Jacksonville on the 24th of January, 1894, and care to see the corbett and Mitchell contest, you can do

also been given out:
"Mayport, Fla., January 17.—I take this opportunity of informing my friends throughout the country that I have received assurances from the Duval Athletic Club today which warrant me in saying that the contest between Charley Mitchel and myself will positively take place in Jacksonville or that city's immediate vi-cinity on January 25th, provided both of the principals appear in the ring. "JAMES J. CORBETT."

The above statement by the club means that the fight will be fought in the woods, where the Southern Associated Press correspondent announced it would have to take place weeks ago. Everything now depends on the ability of the promoters of the fight to keep ine place selected a se-cret from the authorities, for if it becomes known Governor Mitchell will undoubtedly have troops on the scene.

It is understeed that the club people have purchased a huge circus tent, capable of holding 6,000 people, and will bring the men together under the canvas. As to the probable location of the contest, no hint will be given by the club officials. They know that if the fight is to occur, even in the woods, without further interference from the governor, everything must be as secret as the grave. It was thought that the fight might occur in St. John's county, where St. Augustine is located, but Sheriff Perry, of that county, is as determined as Sheriff Broward, of this (Duval) county. Today Sheriff Perry said: "I desire to say that the Corbett-Mitchell fight will not take place in St. John's county, duty according to my oath as sheriff of the county, if I have to call upon the state "When Charley Mitchell asked me about the matter I told him I would have to ston the fight in this county if ordered, and that would pull one man or the other out of the ring. It takes two to make a fight I wish to emphasize my position in this mat-ter publicly, that there can be no misunderstanding with regard to my official attitude in regard to the affair."

The probabilities are, therefore, that some point in Duval county will be selected for the mill, as under the amended articles of agreement, the men must meet either in St. John's or Duval county. Governor Mitchell is said to be thoroughly aroused, and it is asserted that he will m of the club and try to surround whatever spot may be selected for the fight, with state troops.

"Snapper" Garrison, the famous jockey, who has been selected as time-keeper by the Duval Athletic Club, will reach here in the morning.

Sheriff Broward Has Spoken. The prize fight will not take place in Dural county unless the courts restrain the sheriff. Sheriff Broward declares that he will obey the governor. There has been a good deal of guessing as to what the sheriff would do among those who did not know him. Some said that he would see his lawyer and do what they told him to do. Others said he would not interfere be others said he would not interfere because his lawyer fiad already told him he would lay his bondsmen liable to a suit for dam-ages, and that he would disobey the gov-ernor to protect them.

The sheriff does not believe that there is any danger of a suit for damages in case he interferes and that if time does develop he interferes and that if time does develop a case, it will practically amount to only a farce, because the club will be compelled to prove specific damages to make the case, a thing which cannot be done if the fight is prevented. In an interview this morning the subject, the sheriff said:

"I have been ordered by the governor to stop this fight and I propose to obey or ders.

the governor."
"Will you ask the governor to declare martial law?" martial law?"
"I will not unless I see indications of such stubborn resistance as will make me unable to cope with the difficulty. I am satisfied that if the plan for the fight is persisted in, unless some intervention is secured there will be trouble. The people here should, in my judgment, look squarely at the true situation and make every effort to prevent the forcing of an unpleasant issue.

"I have already made my plans to prevent this meeting and I know that they will not miscarry, unless their execution be restrained by action of the courts."

Mr. Bowden, of the athletic club, notwithstanding the declaration of the govern-or and the sheriff, offers to bet $20,000 that the Corbett-Mitchell prize fight having been sent from Montana, one from Helena, stating that no interference by officers need be feared, the attention of Governor

Rickards was called to the matter today.
The governor said:

THE USUAL SKIRMISHING

Is All That Is Reported from Rio de See It. Janetro.

Rio de Janeiro, January 17.—There is lit-tle change in the situation here today. The usual skirmishing continues. Although the rebels occupy Mocangu Island, it is said that the five government guns at Armaco render the position of Mocangu island use-less to the retels. Admiral de Mello is not yet known to have arrived here and the usual uncertainty prevails as to his where-abouts. Report has it that the rebel ad-miral is expected here tonight and that he has with him the necessary reinforcement has with him the necessary reinforcements to make a landing at a point within easy march of Rio. The confirmation issued by the minister of foreign affairs shows that the report recently cabled to the Associated Press regarding the situation, was correct. There now seems no longer any doubt that the rebels, after raising the slege of Bage, lost nearly five hundred men and that they committed many atrocities during their retreat.

The government of President Peixoto is still firmly convinced of its ultimate triumph, and is of the opinion that the revolution's end is not far distant. This also seems to be the opinion of the rebels, but they do not look upon the end in the same light as do the adherents of President Peixoto. Business continues hopelessly entangled and impeded and everybody, ashore and afloat, is heartly wishing for a speedy termination of this monotonous struggle.

AFFAIRS IN SAN DOMINGO.

President Lewill Has His Old Enemy. Marchina, Shot.

New York, January 17 .- The Red line steamship Philadelphia arrived today from carais, and other Venezuelan ports. Among her passengers was F. C. Partridge, the American minister to Venezuela, who is en route to Washington. He stated that his visit home had no official significance and was simply one of pleasure. The Phindelphia stopped at San Domingo, where she added to her passenger its a Gerver. He added to her passenger list a Germa said that affairs in that country are very bad state President Lewill is ruling with an iron hand. The people are in fear of him. His old enemy, General Marchina, whom he had cast into prison more than a year ago, was taken out with eight other about fourteen days before the Philadolphia sailed and were shot. The general was a man of wealth and was furnishing money to his confederates, who were hatching a big dynamite plot to blow up the govern-ment buildings

THE RICHMOND AND DANVILLE. A Bill in the Virginia Senate Looking Toward Reorganization. Richmond, Va., January 17 .- A bill was introduced in the state senate today authoriz-ing the purchase, of the Richmond and Danville railroad, their successors and aspairwise rations, their successors and assigns to become a corporation, adopt a name therefor, and possess and exercise general powers and authorizing the consolidation therwith with other corporations.

The security holders and creditors of the Richmond and Danville have been for some time endeavoring to organize the road and to that end have prepared a plan of reorganization, which has been pretty generally accepted by all the parties interested. It is now proposed to carry out this plan of reorganization and in so doing it is likely that e road will be sold. The bill in or affords the legislation necessary for the pur-pose to form a corporation and authority is also given to straighten out and retain the control of lines in other states embraced in the Richmond and Danville system. Report of the Fair Commissioners. Washington, January 17.-The annual report of the world's Columbian con ers was submitted by President Palmer to-day. Detailed statements of the scope-and various features of the exposition are left for the final report, to be prepared by special committee of the commission, with President Palmer at its head, and which will be a work of great magnitude which will be a work of great magnitude— practically a history of the fair—to be com-pleted next November. An estimate of $42,000 to complete the work of the commission, not including the committee on awards, is made and congress is asked to transfer it from the funds of the committee on awards and board of lady managers. The commission has a balance of $11,000 in the treasury; the committee on awards of the lady managers, $40,539; present board of lady managers, $51,916.

Stoned the Lecturer.

Kansas City, Mo., January II.—A crowd of 2,000 men collected outside the Turner hall last night to take vengeance on an American Protective Association treasurer, known as the "Ex-Priest J. V. McNamara." The speaker. McNamara, appeared on the platform with a rifle, and stated that there was murder in the air, and asked for protection. After a bitter lecture, he and his wife, both armed, entered a carriage. A stone was thrown at them, and McNamara fired on the crowd, after which a running fight for two blocks took place. McNamara and his wife finally escaped, no one being hurt.

The Trouble in Mexico.

El Paso, Tex., January 17.-It is still imossible to get further details of the conliet between the soldiers and revolutionists, but it is certain that there has been a battle near the Mexican Central road, between here and Chinaina. Trains that reached Chinaina today from the City of Mexico brought 600 rurales from that city. These are the favorite troops of President Diaz and are famous as fighters, especially fitted for mountain warfare. Just where these troops are bound for cannot be Strangled by Robbers

Grand Rapids, Mich., January 17 .- Mrs Miles McKendrick was found by a grocer's delivery man this morning lying dead on the floor of her home in South Grand Rapids, having evidently been strangled to death. Her hands were tied behind her and her feet tied together with ropes. Appearances indicate that the house had been robbed. No clue.

Jefferson City, Mo., January 17.—Governor Stone today refused to interfere with the death sentence that was imposed upon Willis Howard, the Kentucky desperado, who is charged with thirty murders. Howard will be hanged at Vlenna, Maries county, for the murder of a deaf mute. He is believed to be the worst criminal ever convicted.

ALL DAY SHE SITS IN THE COURT. Been Threatened-His Victim's Widow Has Threatened Him.

Jackson, Tenn., January 17 .- (Special.)-In the trial of Police Captain T. C. Gaston, for killing W. C. Strickland in this city, the state rested this morning, after adduct ing but very little damaging testimony to the defendant. The most important witness examined by the defense was the surveyor who made a map of the ground ipon which the shooting was done Captain Gaston was put upon the stand. His testimony was clear and positive, and brought out many facts concerning the relations existing between himself and the dead man which have not been heretofore known. The trouble between the two men grew out of a publication by Strickland, but it seems now that there was more. Strickland had threatened Gaston's life and used his name in connection with a woman of the city. The defense proposes to prove that Gaston did all in his power to avoid trouble. Mrs. Strickland, the young wife, sits all day in court, and with one exception her face has remained as pale and unchangeable as marble. Today when Gaston was required to describe the scene of the killing to the jury, his position that of the dead man, how he looked and fell, it was very graphic, and she bowed her head as if to shut from her eyes a horrible vision. The voice of the witness grew husky and tremulous. When it was over, she raised her face, paler than ever, and, with the same defiant spece in her pretty eyes, gave the witness a withering look of scorned hatred. Gaston is what would be termed a handsome man, six feet one inch tall, weighs 225 pounds, is thirtytwo years old, and a perfect blonde. He was born in Columbus, Miss., and reared in Jackson, but is known in Alabama and Georgia. The case is attracting great interest in this section.

St. Louis, January 17.—John Buchner, a coal-black ex-convict, hangs dangling at the end of a rope, the penalty for his villainous criminal assaults yesterday upon Mrs. Al Munge, wife of a colored farmer, and Miss Allie Harrison, the pretty nine-teen-year-old daughter of William R. Harsison, a white farmer. The assaults were both committed within one hour and almest within a stone's throw of each other, between Valley Park and Manchester, Mo., about 3 o'clock yesterday afternoon.

The lynching took place about dawn this morning. The mob was composed of the farmers of the vicinity, who gathered rapid-ly last night, but it was after midnight before a leader was found who could marshal the forces at hand into shape, then ter, where the negro lay at the jail, there was little time wasted in getting the prisoner away from his guards, and, firmly bound with a rope about his neck, and 300 shotgung and revolvers ready to empty their contents into his worthless hide, the march was again taken up.

Back to Valley Park, the scene of his crime, he was carried, or, rather, dragged, and there upon a tree overhanging the scene of his second crime he was yanked up with a jerk that all but broke his neck, but not quite. He was to die by strangulation. For nearly twenty minutes the mob watched his writhing as he slowly choke to death. At last the body became still, and then, with the unanimity of a platoon of regulars, the volley was fired which filled the dangling corpse with lead. Then the lynchers dispersed. Their work was

Last March.
Gettysburg, Pa., January 17.—Murderer
Heist was hanged here at 11:14 o'clock a.
m. The crime for which Henry Heist paid the death penalty was the murder of Emanuel Mown on the night of February 1, 1893. Both men were employed as wood choppers, and lived together in a cabin about a mile from the spot upon which stood Thad Stevens's old Maria furnace. On the night of the murder, they went together to the house of a neighbor for the purpose of visiting a young woman, of which both were enamorated. They left the house together at midnight, and the next day Helst and the woman went away together on a trip to an adjacent county. together on a trip to an adjacent county.

Mown's absence excited suspicion, and a search was instituted, which resulted in the finding of his mutilated body on March 2d. It was buried in a shallow grave covered with leaves, over which a log was rolled. Heist fled when the body was found, and kept in hiding until March 18th, when he surrendered, at the same time protesting innocence.

The last few hours of the state's testimony were given up to the identification of numerous exhibits which had been placed in evidence. The state's attorneys had delayed proceedings as long as possible, hoping for the arrival, from Scotland, of Joe McLaughlin, brother of Mrs. Andraw Foy, but today they decided that he would not be present to testify and allowed the defense to begin its work.

TRAGEDY OF THE SEA.

Heroic Sailors Lose Their Lives While Trying to Save Others.

New York, January 17.—The steamship, Amstedam (Dutch), from Rotterdam, January 3, arrived at the bar this morning. She had a continuation of heavy gales from all around the compass with tremendous high seas and a very low barometer. On Sunday, January 14th, letitude (22) On Sunday, January 14th, latitude 43:21 ongitude 58:18, about 11 o'clock a. m., in a strong northwest breeze and moderate high sea, she sighted a schooner south showing an "American union" down and at halfmast; made for the schooner and saw that a sea was washing over her and that only by hard pumping she was kept afloat. She had a crew of about fourteen men. The crew signaled the Amsterdam by gestures that the vessel was in a sinking condition and that they were anxious to leave the ship, showing at the same time by throw-ing overboard pieces of their boats that some had been wrecked.

The captain of the steamer called his crew on deck and told then the position in which the schooner was. Immediately the first officer and six of the crew offered themselves to man a boat and go for the schooner. No. 4 lifeboat left the Amsterdam and constitutions. schooner. No. 4 lifeboat left the Amsterdam and everything went all right until in the vicinity of the wreck, when a sudden snow shower, with squalls, capsized the boat with the result that three of the crew disappeared immediately and the remaining four succeeded in getting alongside, but they were thoroughly exhaused by the cold and in consequence were not able to take field of the lifesaving apparatus, which was given to them and apparatus, which was given to them and they were drowned with the exception of one sailor, who, by extraordinary of mind, got hold of a rope and w

Another crew presented themselves to man a second boat, but owing to the increasing wind and sea, the captain objected and concluded to wait for better weather and a calm sea. The Amsterdam kept in the vicinity of the wreck until when in a heavy srow and squall, she lost sight of her, and although search was made, she was unable to find the wreck and proceeded on her voyage. The wreck appeared to be the American

The wreek appeared to be the American fishing schooner, Maggie E. Wells. The following are the names of the Amsterdam crew who went to the rescue and were lost: Chief Officer J. Meyer, aged twenty-eight; Second Boatswain E. Carpenter; A. J. Oudyn, steerage; Stewart A. Diss, quarter Oudyn, steerage; Stewart A. Diss, quarter-master of the Geichhorn; Seaman A. Von Viett. Seaman Vender Velitt, who was an expert swimmer, was saved.

The Maggie E. Well's is though to be of Gloucester, Mass. Although every possible means of saving the sailors was employed, their strength was so far spent that they were unable to keep their hold on the ropes and belts thrown them, and in the very act of being lifted to the deck, three fell back exhausted and were drowned, only one and a poorly constructed trestle belonging to the New York, Susquehanna and Westorn railroad was the cause of a frightful accident today in the Jersey meadows, just west of Fairview station. A construction train, consisting of a locomotive and six gondola cars heavily loaded with gravel, was backing over the trestle to the place where the contents were to be dur when the filmsy structure gave way with a crash. The three rear cars were precipitated about thirty feet into a small branch of Bellman's creek, dragging the fourth car down with them. The two forward cars and the locomotive remained on the track.

There was a gang of fifty Italian laborers on the train and three-fourths of them went down. One man, named Frank Lappel, was killed outright, while another died while he was being removed to the hospital. Twenty others were seriously injured and it is thought that some of them may die. Within a short time the wreckage was cleared away and swo score of Italians were dragged out from beneath the gravel and timbers and laid out on the muddy ground at the edge of the creek. They were seriously injured, broken arms and legs being plentiful, while some were in-ternally injured.

The news of the accident spread quickly and soon a number of wagons came over from Fairview. Deputy Coroner Fred Er-ger came over from Hoboken and took charge of the bodies of the dead men, charge of the bodies of the dead men, which were taken to Volke's morgue. The wounded men were all sent in wagons to St. Mary's hospital, Hoboken. It was rumored that five of the men were missing, but Superintendent Jacob Hartridge, who had charge of the work, said that every one had been accounted for.

O'BRIEN IS DISCHARGED. The Alleged Embezzler Is Release

on a Technicality. Chattanooga, Tenn., January 17.-(Spe cial.)—The criminal prosecution of M. J. O'Brien for embezzling $75,000 from the Catholic Knights of America, while supreme treasurer of the order, was begun in the state court this morning. A plea of abatement of indictment was filed by the defense, which claimed that the knights were not a chartered organization under the laws of Tennessees By the legislative act of 1891, unchartered associations are denied the right to own property in the state, and are ranked as benevolent institutions. In consequence, there could be no embezzlement where no rights of ownership existed. On refusal of the prosecution to join issue on the plea, the court discharged the prisoner. A flurry of excitement was created in the courtroom by this unlooked for denoument of the celebrated case. This is one of the most significant decisions ever given from the state bench. O'Brien was allowed to make bond in the sum of $15,000 pending an ap-

SMITH'S SUIT AGAINST ATHENS, At Last the Case Has Come to Trial in

New York.

New York.

New York, January 17.—(Special.)—The Athens city waterworks case came up for trial today in Kings county supreme court. Previous to the introduction of evidence, the attorneys for the city of Athens made a motion to dismiss the case on several grounds. Judge Cullen announced that, while he was of the opinion that the case should be dismissed, he would hear the evidence before giving his decision. Fred H. Smith, the plaintiff, testified concerning his purchase of the old waterworks bonds. W. H. Howell, president of the old company, who is the real plaintiff in the case, consumed the greater part of the day with his testimony. He swore that he had fully complied with his contract, and had furnished Athens pure water and an abundant supply. The plaintiff introduced a New York chemist, named Smoot, who swore that the samples of water which he had examined were sufficiently pure for domestic use.

Athens will introduce the following witnesses tomorrow: Ex-Mayor H. C. Tuck, A. H. Hodgson, T. W. Rucker, J. W. Barnett, W. McKinnon, W. L. Wood and Dr. H. C. White. Unless the city of Athens can present a case strong enough to throw the suit out of court on a demurrer, it is probable that the trial, will consume all of tomorrow and Bridenam Miss. January

RAILROAD NEWS.

Interest Continues Rife in the Western of Alabama's Affairs.

THE SEABOARD MAKES A CHANGE,

Receiver Comer Passes Through on Hi Way to Montgomery-Some Com-ments on Last Year's Earnings.

Interest is aroused again among railroad men in the movements of the Western Railway of Alabama people. The same o'd questions about the rumore ange of management of the road are bob ing up and can be heard on all sides. It is well known that it has been th of Mr. Comer, representing the Centra stock, to put Major Shellman, who is now traffic manager of the Central, in charge of the Western Railway of Alabama. This, would cause the Colonel Phinizy, president, and Captain Tyler, general manager of the road, for it was very well understood that the inter tion of Mr. Comer was to combine the two that office.

Somehow or other there has been a hitch. The meeting of the stockholders and di-rectors of the Western Railway of Alabama was to have been held on the 3d of this month. It was postponed until the Then it was postponed until the 10th on account of the absence of Mr. Comer, who had to go to Washington to fix up the papers of the decree for the sale of the

Some have expressed the opinion that Mr. Comer has decided not to make the change he was said to have already practically made to be ratified at this meeting of the directors.

But Mr. Comer was in Atlanta yesterday and so was Major Shellman. They were stid to be on their way to Montgomery, hough nothing definite could be had from them as to their purposes.

Captain Tyler, general manager of the Western Railway of Alabama, also went to Montgomery yesterday, and there is more than likely some significance in the that these three have all gone there at the ame time. Just what it means cannot be earned. It may mean that the change is vet to be made in spite of the several pos ponements of the meeting to ratify it. On the contrary it may mean that something has turned up that will give quite a change to the plans of the Central folks in their change the management of the Co-Receiver Hayes, of the Central, passed through Atlanta yesterday and it is thought that he, too, was on his way to Mont-gomery. Whether all this means that some traffic arrangement is sought, or whethe it has bearing upon some question that is to come up before the meeting of the direcors of the Western Raiway of Alabama on the 24th, cannot be autnenticany ob

A Memorable Year.

"In railroad earnings, the year 1893 will long remain memorable. The year had been locked forward to with pleasant anicipations by railroad managers. for which they had made very extensive preparations and spent enormous sums of money. Instead of the prosperity and large gains in earnings which had been expected, the year was distinguished by losses which in magnitude and the wide extent of territory covered, are without a parallel in the history of the country. The air did not fail to yield a great increas in passenger revenues upon the roads most immediately concerned—in fact, was a markedly favorable influence at a time of general gloom-but, notwithstanding its portance, it was completely overshadow ed by the compercial and financial panic which ran concernent with it, and which spread from one end of the country to the other, prostrating all industrial interests and leading to an extraordinary curtail-ment of the ordinary activities of the

'An exhibit covering 183 roads operating 141,839 miles of line showed $936,237,955 gross earnings in 1893, against $962,407,915 in 1892, the loss being $25,169,960, or less than 3 per the loss being $25,169,960, or less than 3 per cent—actually only 2.62 per cent. In Deember the decrease was 13.83 per cent and, had that been the ratio of decline for the whole period of twelve months, the falling off would be over $130,000,000, instead of only $25,000,000, as we now find Still, even at $25,000,000 decrease, the result furnishes a marked contrast with the exhibits for the years preceding, for in 1892 the figures showed a gain of $45,000,000, in 1891 a gain of $44,000,000, and in 1890

a gain of over $70,000,00.

"The Northern Pacific has suffered a decrease of $5,662,452, Missouiri Pacific a decrease of $2,695,407, the Denver and Rio Grande a decrease of $1,475,632, the Louis-ville and Nashville a decrease of $1,382,535, the Atchison a decrease of $1,258.464, the St. Paul a decrease of $1,200,000, and the Cleveland, Cincinnati, Chicago and St. Louis a decrease of $1,108,-037; while, for the ten months to October 31st, the Union Pacific has $5,687,-46 decrease, and for the eleven months to November 30th the Pennsylvania has $2,-433.5"4 decrease, the Chicago and North-western $1,523,909 decrease, the Burlington and Quincy $1,407,873 decrease, the Erie $1,173,010 decrease."

Mr. DeSaussure won the applause of the greatest financiers of the country when he read his paper on "The Banking System in Georgia" before the convention in Chicago. MAYOR HORNE OPPOSES THE CAUCUS.

He Does Not Meet the City Council Any Manager of the Exposition Company.

Macon, Ga., January 17 .- (Special.)-Will Judge Emory Speer remove from Macon to Augusta to live, and will the headquarters of his court for the southern district of Georgia be transferred from Macon to Au-gusta? A rumor that such will occur is in circulation today, but the public is not in-clined to believe it, and officials around the government building at Macon do not think removal will take place. It is known however, that Judge Speer was greatly pleased with his stay in Augusta during the past two weeks while holding court, and he was charmed with the cordial and to United States District Attorney Gary that he was greatly disposed to remove to Augusta to live, and the rumor that he would leave Macon started from this. Judge Speer has endorsed the proposition to have the new federal prison located at Augusta, whereas, some time ago he favored the location of the prison at Macon, and his endorsement now for the prison at Augusta is construed as an indication that he really expects to transfer the headquarters of his court to Augusta. It will be remembered that when Judge Speer first went on the bench of the United States court he went to Savannah to live, expecting to make that city his home, but later he decided to move to Macon. Ultimately he purchased a beautiful place in Vineville, Macon's de-lightful suburb, and has been residing there several years. "The Cedars," Judge Speer's and expanse of its grounds.

No More Caucus. If reports are true the present mayor and council of Macon will never have another caucus, so far as Mayor Henry Horne can prevent. Mayor Horne has put his foot down on caucuses and says he will never enter another and does not propose to allow the action of a caucus to control or in-fluence him. For many years it has been the practice of the mayor and council of Macon to meet in caucus whenever there was to be an election of officers. The choice of a majority of the caucus was then unanimously voted for viva voce in open council, and the public was never advised how the vote stood on the different candidates in caucus, and candi-dates were unable to learn whether or not they obtained all the votes that had been promised to them. Often, also, the mayor and council would caucus on some im-portant resolution or ordinance, and the action of the caucus on the matter would be the action of the mayor and aldermer in open council. Last night, before the regular meeting of the city council, the mayor and aldermen held a caucus. The caucus lasted nearly one hour, and it is said that the deliberations at times

Was Quite Lively. The principle topic of discussion was the proposition to impose a uniform license of $15 on certain retail dealers, instead of a graded license tax ranging from $5 to $25.

A majority of the caucus voted in favor of a graded license, and, when the question came up in open council on a resolution by Alderman Dinkler to make a uniform license of $15, the resolution was defeated by a vote of 7 to 4. The vote was as follows: For the resolution, Dinkler, Hurley, Altmayer and Chairman Carling, Hurley, Altmayer and Chairman Carling, 4: against the resolution and in favor of the caucus report, Collins, Sperry, Hill, Harris, Findlay, Howes and Riley—7. When the caucus adjourned and the alder-men filed into the council chamber, each and all of them appeared badly dis each and all of them appeared badly dis-gruntled. Every alderman seemed to be very angry. There was a cloud on each face. The spectators couldn't account for this state of affairs. They thought that the aldermen had been having a monkey and parrot time over the election of a li-cense inspector, but this proved not to be the case. The Constitution's representative asked one of the aldermen why he was asked one of the aldernier was of that li-vexed. He replied, "on account of that li-cense ordinance." It is whispered about todiscontent was the declaration of Mayor discontent was the declaration of Mayor Horne to the aldermen while in caucus that he would never enter into another caucus with the aldermen, and that one should never be held again so far as he was concerned. He is said to have stated to them that their actions, in future, in regard to the elections of officials, etc., should be revealed in open council, and that the public should know how each man voted. He did not propose to countenance any secret balloting. There has not been much harmony and unity between the mayor and council. and unity between the mayor and council. It is rumored that in the caucus last night there was an exchange of cordial expres-sions between the mayor and certain aldermen, so far as their entertaining friendly feelings for each other personally, was con-cerned, but they reserved the right to op-pose one another officially, if necessary. It was declared in the caucus, so rumor says, that the bone of contention and the point of difference between the mayor and certain aldermen are the commissioners. Was the caucus of last night the last one to be held? It will be if Mayor Horne can

He Didn't Say It. It was reported in The Constitution resterday that Mayor Horne stated to the joint sewer committee at their meeting at the city hall on Monday that Hon. W. A. Huff that informed him that he did not intend to enjoin the issuance of sewer bonds, and that so far as he (Huff) was concerned, the construction of the sewers could proceed.

Mr. Huff informs The Constitution's representations Mr. Huff informs The Constitution's representative that he made no such statement to Mayor Horne, and has said nothing at all to Mayor Horne about what he proposed doing in regard to the injunction matter. Mr. Huff says this is a free country and a man has the right to do as he pleases in reference to the sewers, or any other question. A gentleman who was present at the meeting of the joint committees on sewers says The Constitution reported Mayor Horne correctly, but another gentleman in attendance says that Mayor Horne qualified his statement to the effect that Mr. Huff said that under certain conditions, and if certain things were accomplished he would not enjoin the issuance of the sewer bonds. Mr. Huff affirms that he has made no assertion whatever to Mayor Horne about not enjoining the issuance of the bonds.

General Manager Huff.

Who will be the officers of the Macon Exposition Company? This is a much asked and very interesting inquiry. The principal officers to be elected are president, secretary and treasurer, and general manager. Of these the most important is that of general manager. He should be a man of energy, push, perseverance and enterprise. He should have a general acquaintance, and by his zeal inspire enthusiasm in others. A name frequently mentioned for this position is that of Hon. W. A. Huff. He is peculiarly fitted in many respects for the position. All know of his enegetic nature and qualifications for successful leadership. He has had considerable experience in matters of expositions. During one of the years of his mayoralty he managed a state fair given at Central City park under the auspices of the Georgia Agricultural Society, and it was the finest and most successful exhibition of its kind ever held in Georgia. He would make a splendid general manager for the Macon exposition and Georgia State

It may be positively asserted that all of the talk about the national administration figuring in the state campaign which has already opened, is without foundation, so far as General Evans is concerned. Generfar as General Evans is concerned. General Evans does not consider the Wilson bil perfect, but believes that it will, in a great measure, meet the demands of the country, and it should be passed with as little delay as possible. He is strongly in favor of the repeal of the 10 per cent tax on state banks, and although disappointed that the president did not recommend it in his message, does not regard the failure to do so as any indication that Mr. Cleveland is opposed to it.

In the superior court this morning Judge Butt sustained a motion to non suit in the case of W. C. Kiwen vs. the City of Columbus, suit for $20,000 damages for the death of his little nine-year-old son in February, 1891.

1891. Shortly after the opening of Fifteenth street the little Kiwen boy was playing with some of his young friends on an embankment of dirt a short distance from the street, and near the railroad track that runs parallel with the old city park. The dirt, part of which had been carted from Fifteenth street, caved and young Kiwen was smothered to death.

Newsy Notes. J. B. Osborne, the third party agitator and orator, is billed to speak in Columbus on January 29th. Columbus continues to receive considerable shipments of cotton, althought he season is abou over. The police commissioners are full up with applications for positions on the force. The force will be reorganized next month.

Last night's mail brought Chief of Police Williams a letter from Mrs. Curbow, mother of Will Curbow, the little white boy from Atlanta now confined in Muscogee jail. The mother is very much distressed about her boy, and asked Chief Williams to send him to her. The letter stated that the mother was sick and could not come for the runaway. Both the white boy and his colored chum were furnished transportation by the city and left here for Atlanta on the Geor-gia Midland passenger train this afternoon. The condition of Mrs. A. J. wait. A slight cold, in this scrofulous condition, is enough to threaten you with Consumption. At the first symptom of any weakness in the lungs, or with any cough that you can't seem to get rid of, you should take Doctor Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery. For Consumption itself, except in the most advanced stages, and for all the conditions that lead to it, this is a positive and proved remedy.

Consumption is Lung-Scrofula. You must depend upon the blood for a cure. The "Discovery" reaches it, through the blood, as nothing else can. Not only this, but every form of Scrofula. In Consumption, Weak Lungs, Severe Lingering Coughs, Asthma, and all Brouchial, Throat and Lung Affections, it is guaranteed to benefit or cure, or your money is returned.

Squatters or Jealous Competitors Are Be Trouble-Arrests to Be Made.

Valdosta, Ga., January 17 .- (Special.) -A nsational report was received here today of a wholesale attempt at assassination at the turpentine distillery of McCloud & Young, in Clinch county. The distillery is a large one and up to last week has been cherated by Mr. Jacob Moody. It was purchased last week by the firm of McCloud & Young, of which firm Mr. John Roberts, of this city, is a silent partner. Today Mr. Roberts received news that a band of men attempted to kill all of his operators and nine negro workmen were shot while in camp. The weapons used by the parties were mostly shotguns loaded with turkey shot. One or more Winchester rifles were

The distillery is located in a settlement of squatters and one theory is that the was done by them for an alleged belief that the turpentine men were infringing upon their rights by working the great quantities of stock on the wild lands. Another belief is that the firing was instigated by competitors of the distillery company who, it is said, have tried to prevent the firm from operating there. Before Mr. Moody sold out his interest to the present firm he was threatened often by unknown parties and only last week one of

The suspicions of the firm have been kept pretty quiet, but enough was said today to show that there is a good clue and that the erpetrators of the shooting would be arrested. When the shots were fired the negroes fled in every direction, but all turned up today. Some of then are serious-

RAILROAD MEN TONIGHT.

Social Gathering Will Be Held at Their Rooms on Wall Street. There will be a meeting of special interest all railroad men this evening at 7:30 o'clock at the rooms of the railroad depart-ment of the Young Men's Christian Asso-ciation, on Walli street.

Instrumental and vocal music will be furnished and a mutual interchange of views will be indulged in as to how the ad-vantages of the rooms and the work of the department may be extended. A number of changes will, no doubt, be suggested, and in order to get the views of railroad men generally this meeting has been called. Leading railroad men will be present and the welfare of the department, in all of its phases, will be fully and earn-in all of its phases, win be fairly and estly discussed.

Light refreshments will be served and the occasion, from a social point of view, will be thoroughly enjoyed.

There is a constantly growing interest in the work of this department and many of Atlanta's best railroad men are identified with it. There will be a good time at the rooms tonight and everybody who is the treatment of the social of the soc interested in the work of the association cordially invited.

Brings comfort and improvement and tends to personal enjoyment when rightly used. The many, who live better than others and enjoy life more, with less expenditure, by more promptly adapting the world's best products to the needs of physical being, will attest the value to health of the pure liquid laxative principles embraced in the remedy, Syrup of Figs.

Its excellence is due to its presenting in the form most acceptable and pleasant to the taste, the refreshing and truly beneficial properties of a perfect lax-ative; effectually cleansing the system, dispelling colds, headaches and fevers and permanently curing constipation. It has given satisfaction to millions and met with the approval of the medical profession, because it acts on the Kidneys, Liver and Bowels without weakening them and it is perfectly free from every objectionable substance.

Syrup of Figs is for sale by all drug-gists in 50c and $1 bottles, but it is man-ufactured by the California Fig Syrup Co. only, whose name is printed on every package, also the name, Syrup of Figs, and being well informed, you will not accept any substitute if offered.

A Democratic Answer.

'A correspondent, whose communicaon we print in another column, asks us what plan other than borrowing ould The Constitution suggest to Mr. Carlisle at this time.

The question is a very timely one, and shall give it a plain and democratic swer. We would suggest to the addistration to treat the bond issue proet precisely as Benjamin Harrison ted it. We should turn aside from ohn Sherman's sinister advice with an hasis that the country could not stake. We should place the whole ponsibility on congress where it operly belongs. Mr. Carlisle has not particle more interest in providing the treasury deficit than congresshalf so much. He cannot provide he ways and means for carrying on government and preserving its

He has done his whole duty when he ys before congress the facts of the sitation and urges that body to act mptly. There his responsibility ends nd that of congress begins.

But has Mr. Carlisle done his whole in this matter? His annual rewas long withheld. When it was lly 'sent to congress, 'it announced hat there would be a deficit of about 8,000,000 some time during the year. He expressed no anxiety: he made no it demand on congress for relief ut now Mr. Voorhees is waked in the idle of the night and informed that here will be a deficiency above $77,000, and that the emergency is so great Carlisle will be compelled to on his own hook (as we say congress doesn't act by the correspondent asks what plan other than borrowing The Constitution would suggest. There are a number of plans that may be considered by those who have any regard for the welfare of the plain, common people of the country. But it will be time enough to discuss these when the matter is under consideration by the only body that has the authority to maintain the credit of the people, or provide for deficits.

Where the Trouble Is.

Mr. M. E. Ingalls, president of the system known as the Big Four, says that "the first improvement in business will be inaugurated by the railways, but before the railways can move effectually in the matter rates must be placed on a paying basis."

By this Mr. Ingalls means, of cours that the present rates must be increased. The president of the Big Four is a man whose intellectual equipment entitles his opinions to great respect. He has the knack of thinking as well as the gift of expression, and in addition to these he has extraordinary abilities as a man of affairs.

It seems to us, however, that he either overlocks or neglects to mention the controlling factor in the railway business, as well as in the general business of the country. Railways, no matter how perfectly they may be managed, are not superior to their environments The present unprofitable rates were no made because the managers wanted to make them, but because they were com pelled to make them.

Freights are as necessary to the lif of a railway as air is to the life of man. If a man cannot get all the air that is necessary to the prosperity of his sys tem, he is compelled to get all he can Depression, stagnation and low prices fix the railway rates, and managers can not possibly escape from the limitations which grow out of the business situa tion. Of all properties, the railroads of the country are the most sensitive in their response to the conditions affecting business. Low prices and low rates go hand in hand. President Ingalls says he is "anxious that the press and the business men should take the proper view of the rail way situation, and work with the rail way managers to dispel the idea that low rates are a good thing for business. The Constitution is well aware of the fact that low rates are no better fo business than low prices. Both are marks of depression. Both are features that belong to business stagnation and the paralysis of the industrial forces and energies of the country.

The phenomena of low prices, low rates, and other evidences of stagnation are the natural results of the financial revolution through which the country is passing. Many railways are in the hands of receivers, and so are many business houses. And all the railways all business and all industries have been affected.

The cause is not far to seek. It is to be found in the single gold standard which has been established by the policy of the treasury and the sympathetic legislation recently forced through congress by the administration. Every dollar of currency conforms to the increas ing value of the gold dollar. Hence the enormous shrinkage in values, the fall in prices, the business depression and the inevitable reduction in railway rates.

Those business men and financiers who have been arguing that the movement in favor of the free coinage of silver was simply a movement in behalf of the debtors are in a fair way to have their eyes opened. If events that are passing do not convince them of their mis

Work Is the Thing.

Even the most cautious commercial newspapers now admit that the tide has turned and that business is improving. In the iron trade, the last to revive there are higher prices and an increased demand, and all the indications point to the restoration of normal conditions.

We do not look for the return of good times at once. Our depression passed through slow and gradual stages and our recovery will probably be slow. But it is encouraging to be assured that we have passed the turning point and are on the up grade again.

The uncertainties in regard to tariff legislation will soon be over and our manufacturers are now satisfied that the new schedule of duties will not be changed radically enough to injure many interests. Of course, if congress fails to give the country some satisfactory measure of financial relief it will take a long time for business to adjust itself to the new conditions resulting from the general shrinkage of values, but the people are not prepared to believe that their representatives will disappoint their expectations and fail to carry out the policy mapped out by the national democracy at Chicago. Everywhere the outlook is hopeful, and especially in the south. The calamity shouters are disappearing. Grumblers and croakers are not wanted. The thing to do now is to get to work. Money talks, and so does work. To find out what the world wants and will pay for, and then produce it here, is a problem whose solution will make us prosperous

Extravagance Everywhere. An extravagant government makes ar extravagant people, and an extravagant people make an extravagant government. The federal government piled up a big debt during the war, but fully onehalf of it was the result of incompetent reckless and spendthrift methods. At the close of the war our statesmen saw that the credit of the United States was at a low ebb. They at once inaugurated an era of rapid debt paying, and this policy in a few years caused our national credit to reach a higher level than that of England and France. Of the twenty-nine years that have elapsed since the close of the war, we have devoted twenty-six to debt paying After such an experience one would naturally suppose that the government would practice economy and keep out of debt. Not a bit of it-that is not the American way. We have called a halt in the matter of redeeming our public debt, and have plunged into so many extravagances that the administration is seriously considering the expedienc of making a new debt of from $100,000. 000 to $200,000,000 in order to settle some of our pressing obligations. When where he could borrow the money. This is the American ide exactly. Our government proposes to begin an economi cal administration by paying certain debts, and it wants to settle accounts with its creditors by borrowing a lot of money, thus making a new set of creditors. The people are very much on the same The average American will not live within his income and will not pay as he goes. He wants to show the world that he has credit, and having credit he proceeds to utilize it. When he is pressed for a settlement he follows the example of our government-wipes out the old debt and shoulders a new one.

Our long spell of hard times has forced many people to practice rigid economy, but it is doubtful whether it has cure the nation of its extravagant habits. With the first touch of returning prosperity the Americans will branch out nto innumerable speculative enterprises, and at the end of a year of good time they will be heels over head in debt. The people and the government are just alike. They have contracted the habit of living beyond their incomes, and they believe that the way to settle an old debt is to make a new one that will extinguish it. We may go on in this fash ion for generations to come but some day there will have to be a reckoning and a collapse. The sooner we return to the simple ways of our fathers the bet ter. At present both government and peo ple are going the pace that kills.

No Room for a Third Party. The recent efforts of the third party eaders to rally their followers have not been successful apywhere. During the past few months the for mer sympathizers with the third party have been closely studying the situation and their second sober thought is beginning to assert itself. The fact is the voters who are most anxious for financial relief and tariff reform are rapidly coming to the conclusion that there is absolutely no hope of success if they scatter their strength and divide, one element going into a third party and the other remaining loyal to the denocracy. It is now apparent to every thoughtful observer that the surest road to reform is pointed out in the democratic platform, and it is also evident that the rank and file of the democracy are strong enough to influence their representatives in congress and cause them to redeem every pledge that was made at Chicago. The tremendous democratic majority of 1892 has not been wiped out. The voters whose organized effort won the victory of that year are democrats slightest hope that it will be true to its mission and will carry out its promises. Third parties come and go. It is only once or twice in a century that one establishes itself and wins. The masses who are thoroughly in earnest about the financial and tariff issues are familiar with the political history of the country and they fear that if they go into a new party they will encounter a disastrous defeat. In every section there is a growing sentiment in favor of pushing the work of reform inside of the democratic party. Congress has never yet failed to yield to the demands of the people when they have been formulated and expressed clearly, positively and emphatically. The voters of the party hold the key to the situation, and when they make themselves heard the Chicago platform will be recognized as the supreme

What President Dole Should Do. The Americans and other white residents who have organized a provisional ramont in Hawaii shou ake sten to make the ex-queen powerless to injure them. When this barbarous black woman declared that if she ever regained the throne she would behead the members of the provisional government and confiscate their property, the persons so threatened should have sent her to prison or banished her from the country.

President Dole and his associates are giving Hawaii a good government, and it should be maintained in the interests of Christian civilization and progress. The whites who now rule the islands are not bound to shelter an enemy who is scheming for their overthrow and contemplating their slaughter and the confiscation of their property.

President Dole would greatly simplify the situation by banishing the ex-queen or locking her up. This country and other powers might protest, but that is as far as they could go. They have recognized the Dole government and they have no right to attack it or interfere with it when it goes to work to preserve the peace and prevent a revo-

"bimetallist" with goldbug connections. Minister Willis tried hard to warn Gresham of the real character of the Ha-waiian queen and her followers. But Gresham wouldn't be warned. Being a republican, he doesn't care anything about democratic policies or traditions.

Mr. Carlisle doesn't know what the double standard means, but your Uncle Dan Voorhees does, because he is a double standard man himself. He is for free coinage on the stump in Indiana, and for the single gold standard in Washington.

Special Agent George F. Koontz, of the geological survey, has sent to Dr. David T. Day, chief of the mineral resources division, a report on two recent diamond finds. He says: "In October, 1893, a small boy, while playing on a farm that had been under cul-tivation for forty years, located near Ore-gon, Wis., picked up a small semi-transparnt pebble from a bank of clay that contained large number of quartz pebbles. The tone was taken to Professor William H. Hobbs, of the University of Madison, and it was found to be a genuine liamond. It was sent to New York for three and seven-eighths carats. Its color s slightly grayish green. This, however, is only superficial, and it will undoubtedly be when cut a white stone, although not of great value, as it contains some minute specks in the center and has a pronounced flaw on one side. STATE BANKS IN GEORGIA.

Albany Herald: The commercial agencies say that business all over the country is improving and that if congress will only take prompt action relative to the tariff and the repeal of the 10 per cent tax on state banks all will be well. This is signifiant and should receive the attention of all lemocratic congressmen at once.

Butler Herald: The south and west are suffering from a money famine, while over $80,000,000 is piled up idle in the New York banks. Let congress and the aoministration redeem at least one piedge of the party and repeal the 10 per cent on state banks. This measure will bring wonderful relief to the country. Money will become pientiful for legitimate business and prosperity will again visit the people. There can be no excuse for a failure to redeem this piedge. It is a piedge about which there is no question; it is perfectly plain and unless congress and the president intend to com-pletely repudiate all the pledges of the party this one at least should be redeemed without delay. The real fight, then, was in the supreme court of the state, and the law stands. Here is what The Post and the law stands. Here is what the row record of the case shows: No. 762. The Columbus Southern Railway Company, plaintiff in error, vs. William A. Wright, comptroller general, etc.; rrgumesi commenced by William A. Wimbish for the plaintiff in error; the court declined to hear further argument.

The news of the death of Colonel Frank The news of the death of Colonel Frank Burr, for years a well-known newspaper correspondent, will create genuine sorrow wherever Mr. Burr was known. He had been a sufferer for three months from a complication of diseases and died at his home in Camden, N. J. Frank Burr was over sixty years old, but he was always a young man. He was the first man to inter-view Jefferson Davis after the close of the way and he has been prominent in newspa war, and he has been prominent in newspaper circles and political circles ever sine.

At nineteen years of age he was a captain of cavalry in the northern army. He was a man who was greatly admired and loved by all the of the newspaper fraternity.

Mr. P. B. Gramby, of Toledo, O. himself an old soldier, said yesterday: "I find your proposition to have the Grand Army come here in 1895 meets with very general approval. The boys all want to come south once more. They want to look over the batterields and they know they will be well treated. I notice a correspondent in your paper speaks of 300,000 coming. I would like to see that large a gathering together, but I want to say in fairness to you peop's that if the crowd is one-third that large it will be larger than I expect. It is no small journey to come to Atlanta and not every member of the Grand Army can afford it. Yes, I think if you say that between sixty and one hundred thousand will come you will hit it about right. We had a good many more than that at Columbus, O., and Columbus took care of the crowd with great ease. Atlanta I am sure can do just

A Mexican gentleman passed through the city yesterday on his way east to New York on his bridal war, and spoke enthusiatically of the proposed exposition at Atlant. "I tel. you," he said in pretty good English, "the Mexican government and people are always ready to take an active interest in anything of that kind. We never have been backward in coming into anything calculated to help our country by the display do our resources. We have everything in the world and we want the world to know more about Mexico. Atlanta seems to me to be an excellent place for such an expection, though I know not much about your city from personal observation. But anywhere will suit us. The younger Mexico is progressivé and always ready to do any where will suit us. The younger mento-progressive and always ready to do any-thing to help our country. I believe that there is a great deal in it for us to attract the attention of the United States and we believe it is to the interest of the people of the United States to bring about closer business relations. You will find that Mexico will certainly do her part."

Mr. T. S. McIlwaine, of New York, who Mr. T. S. McIlwaine, of New York, who was at the Aragon yesterday, is a democrat, but from his own statement not I Tammany man. "The rejection of Hornblower," said he, "is of course a direct slap at President Cleveland and yet is a good thing for the party in our state. There are 1,000 democrats in New York who are as able, or abler, than Hornblower, who stand higher at the bar and who deserve a place on the supreme bench sooner than he stand higher at the bar and who deserve a place on the supreme bench sooner than he does. This thing of selecting a man simply because he has cut no figure in politics is beginning to disgust not only the politicians and active workers, but the people generally. Hornblower has no personal following and nobody is going to be disappointed at the refusal to confirm him. Of course it is a victory for Hill, but Hill simply reflected the sentiments of the party in the fight he made."

Mr. J. J. C. McMahan, a prominent banker of Athens, spent yesterday in the city.

Mr. Burt Shepard, of Chicago, who went down to Jacksonville to see the fight, was in the city on his way home yesterday.

"I had business at home," said he, "but in addition to that I am convinced that the fight will not take place in Jacksonville, and if they attempt to run off in the woods a great many people who have spent their money to go to Jacksonville will be unable to see it. I believe that it would be easy to put the men on a train and run them over to some of the lower countles of Georgia and have their fight and that they would not be molested. But there would be nothing in that for the club. They would not set the money back that they have put up, so I really thought the chances for seeing the fight rather slim and decided to go home. Had there been any chance to see it I would have stayed."

REDWINE NOW EXISTS He Was Given a Thorough Search by the Officers

THEN SENT TO A" CELL

With Nearly Two Thousand Convicts He Eats Brown Bread and Drinks Black Coffee.

Columbus, O., January 17 .- (Special.)-Lewis Redwine sat down to a supper of brown bread and molasses, sausage and black coffee in the big dining hall of the Ohlo penitent'ary this evening. Even a stranger would have picked him out of the convicts assembled there as a new man, for he moved restlessly on the little stool and nervously minced the unappetizing diet. The dreamy, vacant expresion which now and then crept into his face indicated that his thoughts reverted to pleasanter scenes than those which his new environment forced upon him.

The rough, striped clothes poorly beco him. His smoothly shaven face, with scarcely a line, was in marked contrast to the criminal-cast features of the man who sat beside him, but in the eyes of the law they were equal.

Redwine seemed to note the curious side lances which his fellow prisoners directed to him. Did they know who he was? Perhaps he found consolation in the belief that they did not. He might have been still more restless and uneasy if he had known the truth, for his coming was known to every prisoner in the great dining hall. How? That is one of the mysteries of the big prison. Any news of importance goes ough the institution like a flash. The officials will tell you so, but they cannot tell how. When Redwine was led to his cell in the east hall and the heavy iron door locked him within, he had time to conjure over the events of the day, and ther things too, before the lights were ordered out at 9 o'clock. The cell to which he was assigned was merely temporary. He will probably be given one of the large cells in the new hall, a favor which he will doubtless appreclate after having spent a night in one of he smaller ones.

Redwine arrived at the penitentiary about oon with Marshal Elder and his deputies, who also had other prisoners in charge. dedwine was not handcuffed, as most of the prisoners brought to the prison are, but walked at the side of the marshal. He was dressed in a natty suit and carried an spected that he was a prisoner. Marshal Elder evidently expected unusual privileges for Redwine, for he objected to the customary search in the guardroom. This nettled an Thrall, the big captain of the guardroom, whose instructions did not permit him to discriminate between prisoners, and he unbuttoned Redwine's coat and vest with little ceremony and went hrough his pockets. A roll of bills amounting to $47 was taken from an inside pocket and this, ith a gold watch and chain and other trinkets were handed over to the clerk to be held in trust for the prisoner. Redwine also had a valise containing a large supply of underwear, linen shirts, collars and cuffs, of which he was also relieved, being informed that he would have occasion for very little of that stuff there. The prisoner seemed surpised, but bore the ordeal bravely and did not exhibit any emotion. Not Talkative.

Once inside the prison Redwine was taken through the routine of preparation, the same as all convicts. He was, as all conous prison officials through whose hands story. The first thing upon his commit-ment by the marsha! was to give him his serial number, which is 24986. That num-ber will stick by him during the whole time of his imprisonment, and afterwards, perhaps, as he will be known by it. For he benefit of his numerous friends in Atlanta it may be stated that his address now is Lewis Redwine, No. 24,986, Ohio Peniten-tlary, Columbus, O. Of course Redwine will not receive any private mail. All let-ters are taken and inspected by the officials before reaching the prisoner. Redwine was somewhat surprised when informed that he would have to don the stripes at once. He was taken to the deputy warden's office, where his description was taken and he was required to answer numerous questions He was classed as an infirm prisoner by reason of the affliction of varicose veins on legs and rheumatism. This precludes his employment at hard labor. His occupains employment at hard labor. His occupa-tion appears on the books as banker. From the deputy's office Redwine was taken to the state shop, where he donned the stripes. A coarse gingham shirt' was sub-stituted for his spotless linen and a pair of heavy. eavy brogans replaced his hand-sewed shoes. When Redwine had been fully rig-ged out he was assigned to the idlehouse gang. There are also a large number of idle prisoners just at this time, but it is not probable he will be kept in the idle-house long. He will probably be assigned as bookkeeper for one of the prison contractors. actors or some light work for the state. Redwine brought with him a letter from prominent citizens asking that he be treated as gently as possible. It is not improbable that he will be given some privileges, but it will be on account of his physical condition. Redwine says he is going to try to be a gentleman while prison, and if this resolution is carried out it will not be long until he will have a good many friends and many privileges on the star years' sentence; he will gain under the state laws two years by good behavior and his term will expire January 17, 1898, if he is not liberated sooner by communation or pardon. Redwine says he expected to be taken back to Atlanta in March as a witness, and when informed by the officials that the cleable of the same of the witness, and when informed by the officials that the clothes which he wore would probably be turned over to the worthy poor, according to a recent order of the board of managers, he requested that they be saved until March so that he could wear them back home. The request was granted and the clothes stored away in the stateshop. HE HAS GONE,

But the People of Atlanta Are Yet

Talking About Him. Although Lewis Redwine, buried in the living grave of the Ohio peatentiary, has dropped out of consideration as a personal dropped out of consideration as a personal dropped out of consideration as a personal dropped out of consideration which has drepped out of consideration as a personal figure, the complicated intrigue which has grown out of his crime is apparently as far from an end as ever. Its latest phare centers in the part played by Captain Harry Jackson in this strange and absorbing drama, and his last communication to the public together with the reply of Mr. E. S. McCandless to certain intimations contained in his former card are printed in full herewith.

At the conclusion of Redwine's trial it will be remembered that Mr. McCandless, through his attorney, Mr. Hill, insisted that the charges against himself be taken up at once. He urged two reasons—first, that he had been for a long time ready and anxious for trial; and, second, that Lewis Redwine was an essential witness for the defense.

matter, simply gave Mr. McCandless permission to file his written demand.

Yesterday this was done.

At the opening of court Mr. Hill reiterated his request that the case be immediately taken up and Mr. James again replied that it would be impossible for him to proceed just then with the trial.

Judge Newman seemed inclined to press the hearing and asked Mr. James whether it would not be possible for him to complete his preparation by next week. He replied that it would not.

Mr. McCandless was then permitted to make a statement and explained that he make a statement and explained that he had made every effort to obtain a hearing and that the delay was prejudicial to his business and damaging to his character. Mr. James had assured him, he said, that in the event of Redwine's conviction the indictments are the said that in indictments against him would "probably be nolle prossed." This, however, he was unwilling to have done. nwilling to have done.

"I don't want the cases dismissed," he aid, "but I want a full and complete vindi-

Judge Newman then wrote the order that the demand be spread upon the minutes of the court. Stripped of its legal phrase-ography the demand sets forth that the defendant in the case of the United States vs. E. S. McCandless, on indictments Nos. 4104, 4105, 4106 and 4107, charging that he 4104, 4105, 4106 and 4101, charles in his em-did aid and abet Lewis Redwine in his empezzlement from the Gate City bank, is now ready for trial and insists upon the same. It further states that this demand was made before Judge Pardee when all the witnesses were present and there was no excuse for delay.

If Mr. McCandless was before a state court he would be relieved of these caser at the close of the second term if not tried after filing such a demand at the first term. This is a rule of practice.

Just what the next development will be in problement.

s problematic. It will certainly be watched with interest. An interesting feature of the case during the day was a card published by Mr. E. S McCandless and one written by Captain Harry Jackson. These cards are in plain English and speak for themselves. Here are the cards:

Mr. McCandless's Statement. "The uncalled-for allusion to myself in Captain Jackson's 'defense of the memory of his dead son,' demands that I make some reply. 'If Lewis Redwine's plea of guilty, without having made a public statement together with what Captain Jackson has written, has vindicated poor Cobb Jackson, no one will rejoice over it more than myself. God forbid that I should disturb the memory of the dead except in so far as it may be necessary for the vindication of my own character, and consequently I will touch as lightly as possible on the sacredness of the grave, in what I am about to vrite, my purpose being to review Captain Jackson's connection with the Redwine case as a public official and his action in some matters connected therewith. Previous to the Redwine defalcation Captain Jackson had no truer friends than could be found in Messrs. L. J. and A. W. Hill, Lewis Redwine and myself and in turn we fancied that in Captain Jackson as the rusted confidential adviser of the bank we had equally as good and true a friend; certain it was that I was as much attached to This friendly relationship both for Cobb and his father existed up to the unfortunate defalcation of Lewis Redwine, and starting from this period I propose to give a brief listory of the actions of Captain Jackson in this case as an official of the United States

"On the morning following the flight of Lewis Redwine, Captain Jackson met Messrs. L. J. and A. W. Hill and myself in the bank, and on my informing him of the existence of certain checks of Thomas Cobb Jackson which were found in Red-wine's private drawer and one of which particularly (for $5,000) Cobb Jackson admitted to me that he owed. Captain Jackson remarked to us (this was his exact language as near as I can quote it,) 'Gentlemen, do you know that when I first read the news of Redwine's defalcation, knowing the intimacy existing between Redwin and Cobb, and knowing my son's mania for spending money, it flashed over my mind that my son might in some way be connec-ted with this defalcation. On that afternoon Cobb Jackson died. His remains were carried to Athens, Ga., and buried, and on the return of his father to Atlanta, Lewis Redwine had been captured and had made e confession of his guilt to L. J. and A. W. Hill, Mr. Jack Spalding and myself, and in that confession implicated Thomas Cobb Jackson. We, that is, Messrs. L. J. and A. W. Hill and myself, were subpensed to appear before the United States grand jury then in session, and while we did not volunteer any information to that grand jury, yet we freely and fully answered such questions as were asked us, and among those questions was one asking what Redwine had said as to what became of the money abstracted, to which we replied that he (Red-wine) said that Cobb Jackson got most of

"Redwine was indicted, but very soon Jackson felt outraged against Mr. Hill and nyself on account of our testimony against Cobb before the grand jury. Whereupon Mr. L. J. Hill called to see Captain Jackson and inquired if the report was true. To which Mr. Jackson replied in substance, 'Yes, and you had no business to answer any such question to the grand jury.' In a few days after, Bank Examiner Stone informed me that Captain Jackson had secured an appointment for himself as special attorney for the United States in the case, and was going to attack Mr. L. J. Hill and myselt, although he, Mr. Stone, had assured him that after a rigid examination of the affairs of the bank, he found nothing mat would in the least implicate Mr. Hill or myself. The public is well acquainted with the details of the full and searching investigation made by the grand jury of which Mr. Charles Kingsbery was foreman, when Cap-tain Jackson offered them bills against both Mr. Hill and myself, and which they promptly rejected, thus completely exoner-ating us both. "Subsequent to this, at a meeting of the stockholders of the Gate City National bank at which Captain Jackson was present, he voluntarily stated in that meeting, that though it was not the proper place for it, yet he felt it his duty to say that after an unprecedented and thorough investigation, conducted by himself before the grand jury regarding the Redwine defalcation, there was nothing that could reflect on the honesty and integrity of any of the officers of the bank except Lewis Redwine and that the bank except Lewis Redwine and that he was simply anticipating what he intend-ed to say and emphasize in a public manner at the proper time at the trial of the case; and furthermore, that while Mr. Hill and myself might have felt hurt at his action, yet he was satisfied that we would now see that it was all for the best, as we (Mr. Hill and myself) had been completely vindicat-ed. Some months after this, in the face of such strong language, Captain Jackson appeared before another grand jury and on ex parte evidence (identically the same in part as that given before the former grand part as that given better the former grand jury) without a full, fair and free investi-gation, obtained true bills against myself. "The foregoing are facts which can be proven by competent witnesses, and I chal-lenge Captain Jackson to dispute them. I have demanded again and again an immediate trial and I have been delayed in it and ate trial and I have been delayed in it and put off, and was informed by the district attorney, Mr. James, that perhaps after the Redwine trial my case would be dropped. No, never! A thousand times never! Messrs. James and Jackson, I demand that you try this case. I thrown down the gauntlet to you both and dare you to your utmost and to a speedy trial. All that I insist on is that the trial be just and fair. The assistant district attorney acknowledged to me after the Redwine trial that the government had no case against me; both bank examhad no case against me; both bank examiners, Stone and Campbell, assured the dishe had been for a long time ready and anxious for trial; and, second, that Lewis Redfense.

District Attorney James replied that the government was not then prepared for trial and Judge Pardee, without passing on the you insist we will go right ahead, but I have an engagement this afternoon with some ladies that I hate to break. I would like you to join us; but, as I say if you insist I am af your service, Otherwise I would like to put it off until tomorrow."

"The examiner said, 'Certainly, Mr. Red-wine'."

Captain Juckson's Cart.

Atlanta, Ga., January 17.—Editor Consitution: In this morning's Constitution appears an article headed "Regwine Has Gone," in which statements are made to write. Legists to briefly reply.

which I desire to briefly reply.

1. The counsel representing the government are in full possession of overwheaming evidence to the effect that but one of Tom Cobb Jackson's checks was exhibited to the bank examiner by Redwine, and that was dated February 18, 1886, was for the sum of $200, drawn on the Bank of the State of Georgia, not on the Gate City National bank.

2. I personally examined Mr. Campbell, the bank examiner, thoroughly as to this matter, immediately after Tom Cobb Jackson's death. He stated that the story that a package of $40,000 of Tom Cobb Jackson's checks had been paimed of on him by Red-wine, was too absurd for denial; that he had examined every check offered as a eash item, and there was not one on Tom

Tom Cobb Jackson, Redwine would have shown $40,000 in cash and cash items more than the books called for. No such tale

4. That Redwine would have destroyed these checks is equally absurd. If there were any papers he would have carefully preserved, it would have been those checks. Why destroy checks to the amount of $40,-

000, and retain checks to the amount of $40,-$6,700?

5. That Tom Cobb Jackson lost $30,000 in the Atlanta Florida railroad is equally absurd. The Gate City National bank, Mr. L

J. Hill, Mr. A. W. Hill, Mr. E. S. Mc-Candless and Mr. Lewis Redwine held stock

the Georgia Improvement Company, which controlled the Atlanta and Florida, to the aggregate amount of between $6,000 and $60,000. It is now my recollection that Mr. McCandless's interest was $5,000. The interest of Mr. Redwine was still less. It was during the time that Tom Cobb Jackson and Mac Marsh were endeavoring to sell that railroad in New York, by which the above stock would have been in part saved to the bank and gentlemen named, that the larger por-

To sum up: A hunted fugitive from justice, thirty-five statement made by the admitted criminal finding of checks to the amount of $5,700 among his papers and mixed in with the checks, notes, memoranda of payments, etc., of other people. The captured man further

Where the missing money is I do not know. I charge no one with the responsibility therefor except Mr. Redwine. To this unfortunate man, I have more a feeling of deep regret than any other. At times when I realize the extent of the infamy he has attempted to place on my dead son, I feel that no punishmnt would be too great; but a hunted fugitive does not weigh the means at hand which he may regard as affording

They were busy at the jail yesterday clearing out Redwine's old cell for the reception of Harry Hill. It is a small, plain room on the second floor with a closet opening into it. The door is wooden but it has an outside iron screen. The cot on which kedwine slept for a year was loaned by a friend and removed yesterday.

"I sent this cot," said the owner, who requested that his name be kept out of the papers, "because years ago Dr. Redwine trusted me for nearly 2000 worth of medicine at a time when my family was sick Redwine's Cell. not enough that I should suffer pecuniary loss and misfortune by the wrecking of the Gate City National bank, but now I am called on to offer, my good name as a willing sacrifice to gratify the insatiate thirs for revenge on the part of him who did not at the proper time and place carry out his voluntary promise, made in good faith to the stockholders of the Gate City National bank, to exouerate both Mr. L. J. Hill and myself. It was indeed a scene to bring the blush of sname to the cheek of manhood, where the novel spectacle was presented at the conclusion of Redwine's trial, that while cine at a time when my family was sick and I had no money. When I heard his boy was in trouble I wanted to do something, so I sent this."

The only other furniture was a table, a chair or two and a gas stove. Contrary to the printed statements Redwine did not read a great deal during his confinement. He had a few old magazines—no books. "He had a few old magazines—no books.
"He was without money," said one of the guards. "The most he had at one time during his entire confinement here was $5."
The cell door was not locked during Redwine's stay and he was allowed to go into the halls at will. This privilege will not be allowed Harry Hill.

LILLIAN LEWIS'S LATEST.

She Has Discarded the Naughty Girl Roles and Taken to the Good. "I have laid all the naughty girl characters on the shelf, and now am playing one of the sweetest, prettiest parts you ever saw," said Lillian Lewis, yesterday. Her company stopped over in Atlanta on the way to Macon. The star and her manager breakfasted at the Aragon, where this startling announcement was made. This was a sensation, sure enough. Miss

Lewis has been so long identified with Lena Despard, Lady Lil, Therese Racquin, Cora and such characters, that it is rather hard to fancy her in any other role. "Yes, it's the truth. This new play of mine, 'Goodby Sweetheart,' is a charming sweet piece, and the girls fall in love with

"THE PRIVATE SECRETARY."

This very funny comedy was greeted by a comparatively small audience at the Grand last night, "Chinatown" evidently cutting into business pretty badry. The play is familiar to Atlanta theatergoers, having been seen here upon several occasions. It is unquestionably one of the funniest comedies of moderntimes, and in good hands is always productive of much genuine merriment. It was produced last night by Mr. Jame It was produced last night by air Janes K. Hackett and a company that is good in most particulars. Mr. Hackett is a young actorw hose stellar career has just begun, and when this is taken into consideration he does remarkably well in the part. His renfalls considerably short of that of Mr. Gil falls considerably short of that of Mr. Gli-lette, but his make-up is good, his voice in keeping with the part, and in many respects he pleased. He falled, however, to make the "do-you-know," which is the trade-mark of the play, go as it should. His observation was as whole rether characterization was, as a whole, rather weak, and it would be an exaggeration to say that the play, as a whole, went with the snap which was expected of it. The company, though strong in spots, is not equal to others that have given the play. Mr. Hunter who was the original Catter-mole in the first New York production, is the strongest member of the company. As the old uncle with the liver, he was very

6. As to the loss of $8,000 at a faro bank in New York by Tom Cobb Jackson, I have no information other than the newspaper statement. If such a loss was sustained, it funny. Mr. Verner Clarges, the Mr. Nears-land, is fully up to the requirements of his role; Mr. Germaine, as his nephew, is fair, but Mr. Bernard, the Douglas Cattermole simply doing what some of the ablest and best in the land had done before 7. As to the statement in reference to the Sullivan-Corbett fight, I have to say that some Cobb Jackson was in Mississippi a day and bogus private secretary, is hardly up to the mark. The ladies of the company— Miss Docie, Miss Noteman, Miss McVicker, Miss Bennett and Miss Palmer—gave gener-

The offering should prove attractive to Miss Morris's many adprove attractive to Miss Morris's many admirers in this city; doubly so when they are assured of the famous star's entire restoration to health. Her performances, always powerful and interciting to a marked degree, are said to excel in point of power even her past triumphs. There is no question of the supremacy of Clara Morris in the enactment of these dramas that call for a display of intense feeling. Tuesday night "Claire" will be the bill.

Then Roland Reed. Then Roland Reed.

Following Morris comes the ever-popular comedian Roland Reed. Reed's new play seems to be a great success. In the course of a long descriptive notice The Nashville American said: "Mr. Roland Reed and his clever company

There is lively action and quick movement to the play, and the lines are bright enough to keep the audience in a perpetual laugh. to keep the audience in a perpetual laugh. Still there are serious parts, and, altogether, Mr. Reed is seen at better work than heretofore in Nashville. He has lost none of his laugh-provoking ways and has gained in the higher attributes of the stage—those attributes that raise the actor above the attributes that raise the actor above the piane of comedy pure and simple, and inject touches of pathos to show by contrast the power of the stage artist. Mr. Reed was called before the curtain and made a neat little speech, which was as funny as anything in the play, and which was greeted by the audience with marks of their endorsement and approval."

ncrease of insanity among the negroes during the last few years is an alarming fact. Before the war, it was a rare thing for a negro to be sent to the asylum. Possibly this was due to the fact that they were protected by their owners, and, consequently, did not come to the asylum; but I can youch for their coming to the surface now. Almost every train brings in some poor unfortunate, and we are besieged with applications for admittance from all over the state.

The Stock Market Was Irregular and Dull with the Close 1-2 Per Cent Down to 3-4 Per Cent Up.

THE SPOT MARKETS 1-16 TO 3-16 LOWER.

NEW YORK, January 17 .- The changes the active list as a result of today's speculation on the stock exchange are very slight indeed and are generally on the bear side of the market, the most being % per cent in Sugar preferred and Union Pacific. Dullness prevailed all day and there were periods of complete stagnation. What little was done for the foreign account was on selling orders and the commission houses reported a dearth of business. Occasional drives were made on the Grangers, particularly St. Paul in the earlier dealings, when exaggerated reports of the earnings for the second week in January were circulated, the published statement showing later in the day a loss of $120,047, which is less than the figures of the rumor mongers. But it was impossible to depress prices materially on small offerings and the short interest did not seem inclined to make very heavy plunges. There was no great demand for stocks on the other hand, and no special for stocks on the other hand, and no special effort was made to establish a high range of values in the general list, the only not able movement being in the specialties. It was reported that the appointments of Charles Parsons and Mr. Platt as permanent receivers of New England was assured and on purchases induced thereby the stock rose 1% per cent. A reaction of % per cent followed, with a final rally of % per cent. At the opening of business the market was weak and prices were a small fraction lower, but in the haif hour following a better tone prevailed and the losses were recovered, Manhattan being an exception and declining 1 per cent. London selling of the arbitrage specialties started a downward movement, in which the general list lost a fraction, Kansas and Texas preferred 1/2 and Morris and Essex 2 per cent. American Tobacco preferred had advanced 2 per cent and Consolidated Coal 3 per cent. The depression continued until 11:30 o'clock and further fractional declines took place, generally Mobile and Ohio, selling down 1½ per cent. Purchases to cover some small hort contracts brought about a slight temporary rally, but the market leaped back into weakness, Cordage preferred breaking 5 per cent on a sale of 100 shares and resovering ½ per cent. In the last half hour of business, under fairly good buying, the general list moved up 1%, Lead preferred, Kansas and Texas preferred 1% and Pullman 1% per cent. Compared with the final sales of yesterday, the only changes at the close today of 1 per cent and more are: A decline of 4½ in Cordage preferred, 1½ in Kansas and Texas, 1½ in Morris and Essex, 1½ in Manhattan and Lackawanna and 1 cent in Mobile and Ohio and an advance of 3 per cent in Consolidated Coal of Maryland, 2 per cent in Tobacco pre-Purnell, Hagaman & Co.'s Stock Letter. By Private Wire to J. C. Knox, Manager. NEW YORK, January 17.—The market NEW YORK, January 17.—The market was narrow, and reflected chiefly the operations of room traders scalping for small profits. Cammack brokers attacked St. Paul, and the movement pressure was removed toward the close, and the stock rallied easily. Lead trust was strong on the information that the lead schedule will be modified so as to concede all that the president of the company has asked. Sugar did not respond to the general rally of the market in the last hour. It is understood that the democrate leaders will insist on the schedule as originally reported by the ways and means committee. There was some selling of Louisville and Nashville on the expectation that a block of stock shipped from Europe will be delivered tomorrow, causing a decline in the preinfum demand for the use of the stock. Big Four stock advanced on the reiteration of the report that the negotiations for the acquisition of the Chicago and East Illinois were practically consummated.

This market, however, immediately started downward, after opening at last night's prices, and declined 7 points, recovering, however, all it had lost and closing firm. There have been some very good Liverpool cables here today, one from a prominent reuse expressing the opinior, that the market had been suddenly depressed, and saying they expected a sharp reaction as trade was in a healthy condition. All markets, however, have felt the influence of the movement today, which at ports is 27,800, against 13,000 last year, and the interior movement is also larger. The semi-weekly report from thirteen points, as given by the New Orleans stock exchange, shows receipts 39,000, against 30,000 last year, but a loss in stocks of 18,000 as compared with last week, indicating a total loss for the whole week at the twenty-four weekly reporting towns of perhaps 25,000 to 30,000 bales, whereas thirty-one important points in the south lost only 13,000 stocks in six weeks from January 12th 1635 year.

We shall have to increase our estimate of the amount coming into sight this week, from 125,000 to about 155,000 bales, against By Private Wire to J. C. Knox, Manager.

We shall have to increase our estimate of the amount coming into sight this week from 135,000 to about 155,000 bales, against 142,000 last year, but we still adhere to our belief that we shall be at the end of the month about 200,000 bales less than four years ago, the crop of which year was 7,311,000. The southern spot markets are 1-16 to ½ lower today, so far as they have been reported here, but exporters say they are unable to buy cotton on a shipping basis. Any favorable change in the situation remains very largely with Liverpool, when they still continue to take spot cotton freely, the sales there being 12,000 today. The market requires new buying power, and this may only develop to any marked extent, as it did last week, after the movement shows a decided diminution as compared with last year. The bears call attention always to the movement of twelve months ago, knowing that for this week and next it would be a very bearish comparison, whereas, we should not compare with what was the smallest January movement for many years, but the crop of 1889-90, the figures of which should be taken in forming some idea as to what is to come into sight for the remaining months of the cotton year. It must not be forgotten that we shall lose in July and August of this year 100,000 bales at least compared with what came into sight last year, but this is another cullish feature that the bears naturally keep in the dark. There may be no permanent improvement funtil the crop movement justifies more active and general buying than does the present scale of receipts. Neill confirmed yesterday his October estimate of 7,700,000 minimum. We do not fear, however, that he will not reduce his figures in the near future. Hubbard, Price & Co.'s Circular.

NEW YORK, January 17.—Liverpool started off this morning rather better tnan people had expected. The decline record up to noon was only about 2-6ad, but the comparative stability which was shown was witnout effect upon our market, which opened at last night's prices. This apathy exacted upon Liverpool and prices there at the close were fully 3-64d lower tnan yesterday. Spot sales were 12,000 bales. The New York market within half an hour after the orening, which was at about last night's quotations, had declined from 768 points, the cause of the decline being the large receipts and the fear of a freer movement tomorrow. New Orleans' receipts for tomorrow are estimated at 5,500 to 8,000 bales, against 6,946 bales last week and 7,502 bales last year. The semi-weekly interior movement as made up by the New Orleans cotton exchange is as follows: Receipts 39,006, last week 30,000, last year 31,000; shipments 44,000, last week 41,000, last year 35,000; stocks 350,740, last week 389,86, last year 555,159. The loss of 18,000 bales in stock shown in the above statement is about what might have been expected. Receipts at Memphis today are 551 bales, against 613 bales last year, at St. Louis 812 bales, against 613 bales last year, and at Houston 3,200 bales, against 2,600 bales last year. The Southern Trade, a newspaper issued at Waco, Tex., has today added to the list of crop estimates by contributing as its guess at Texas' production 1,935,000 bales and the total United States production at 7,500,000 bales. These figures were without effect upon the market. New Or-eans' telegraphs that Mr. Neill published in today's paper a bearish circular maintaining his estimate of 7700,000 bales minimum, Increasing Texas to 2,000,000 bales and on that basis concluding that the visible su Hubbard, Price & Co.'s Circular.

and recovered the entire decline. For the advance there was no apparent reason except as might be found in the continued absorption of cotton by one or two prominent houses, and it seems probable that the volume of receipts will still entinue to be the controlling influence. During the afternoon the market continued nervous, be the controlling influence. During the afternoon the market continued nervous, but toward the close strengthened up quite sharply and final prices were firm at the highest of the day and about 6 points over the lowest touched. Expectation here generally favors the idea of an advance in Liverpool tomorrow. The market seems to be about sold out and it will require a continuance of heavy receipts to depress it further, while any falling off may result in a substantial advance.

NEW YORK, January 17.—(Special.)—
The trading in cotton today represented a pretty stubborn battle between the buils and the bears. The receipts were too big to please the friends of cotton, and the market, after opening at a slight improvement, became very weak and a decline began immediately after the call, and great quantities of long cotton were sold out. The buils took the offerings with a good deal of courage, but the pressure caused prices to give way about 7 points. At the moment the market looked very weak, but the resolute purchases of a leading local operator checked the décline; but in the last half hour the feeling seemed to improve, and after the close the demand stiffened and 8.03 was bid for March with no sellers. The port receipts this week will overrun the estimates and perhaps exceed those of last week, but we are now told that next week will show a great falling off. The bears say that this is the old story. Riordan & co. s cotton Circular.

Cotton Gossip.

To New York traders the important item seems to be the size of the cotton crop that is now being marketed, and not the low cal position of cotton would warrant much higher prices, but outside of statistics every-thing is against the fleecy staple.

It seems that it all centers in the number of bales of the cotton crop of 1893-94, and there is quite a difference of opinion as to the actual outturn of this crop, but even at the highest estimate, with a good demand from American spinners, there would be none too much raised.

Of course, when the demand is confined alone to foreign apinners, it will be the producer that must suffer, though accord-ing to all advices from cotton centers, the farmer has parted with the greater part of

When it is absolutely certain that the producer is out of supplies then it is more than likely that we will have a sharp advance. THE CHICAGO MARKET.

CHICAGO, January 17.—Heaviness was the feature in today's wheat market, and May closed %c lower, after a weak opening, and declined on free offerings; a reaction followed with fair buying, but Bradstreet's increase in stocks caused a drop in wheat, and the gain was lost. May corn closed le higher, May oats le higher and provisions lower all around. Wheat opened weak, with May ½c lower at 64%c, and a further loss of ½c was scored. The weakness was caused by unfavorable market advices from abroad and a general lack of support. Northwestern receipts, larger than last year, were also responsible to some extent for the decline. Some of the larger traders were "bearing" the market, and their free offerings were against prices. At the decline, however, there was some pretty fair buying. Cottrell, Chamberlain and some of the minor shorts covered a good deal of wheat at a lower price, and a recovery followed. Prices fell fairly steady until Bradstreet's report of stocks was received, which again had a "bearish" effect and helped to carry market advices from abroad and a general lack of support. Northwestern receipts, larger than last year, were also responsible to some extent for the decline. Some of the larger traders were "bearing" the market, and their free offerings were against prices. At the decline, however, there was some pretty fair buying. Cottrell, Chamberlain and some of the minor shorts covered a good deal of wheat at a lower price, and a recovery followed. Prices fell fairly steady until Bradstreet's report of stocks was received, which again had a "bearish" effect and helped to carry prices back to almost boitom figures. Bradstreet reported an increase of 1,045,000 bushels east of the Rocky mountains and a decrease of 781,000 bushels. Stocks afloat for and in Europe decreased 1,334,000, making a net increase of 1,277,000 bushels. Stocks afloat for and in Europe decreased 1,334,000, making a net increase of 1,277,000 bushels. The export clearances were fair, and aggregate 526,000 bushels, of which 379,000 bushels was in flour and 36,400 bushels was in flour and 36,400 bushels was in flour and 36,400 bushels swas in flour and 36,400 bushels and after opening, advanced 2,2%c, eased of $50,000,000 to $100,000,000 that their own particular ideas are being met in the way of finance and May closed at 6412c.

There was not much doing in the corn market, the ruling being very quiet, with trade at no time active. A very steady tone was displayed, but the range, as a whole, did not vary materially from that of yesterday. Present receipts are little more moderate, the day's arrival being 33 cars and tomorrow's placed at 367 cars, and had a tendency to steady values. May opened \(\frac{1}{2} \) colored lose lower at 37\(\frac{1}{2} \), declined \(\frac{1}{2} \), advanced \(\frac{1}{2} \) and reacted \(\frac{1}{2} \), to close at 37\(\frac{1}{2} \).

There was a fair trade in May oats, but the other months were quiet. The feeling at the opening was unsettled, owing to the break in wheat, and first sales were at \(\frac{1}{2} \) crange and \(\frac{1}{2} \) declow yesterday's closing. A better feeling developed later, prices advancing \(\frac{1}{2} \) and closed steady at about the top, with May at 29\(\frac{1}{2} \).

Provisions opened weak and slightly lower on the run of live hogs at the yards being in excess of the estimates, with reported liberal receipts throughout the west. The packers were the principal sellers, the offering being a little more free, but not large. On some covering by a few "shorts," prices firmed up to a limited extent, to break away again on increased offerings. Subsequently, the market became irregular, especially for pork, fluctuating frequently within a moderate range extent, to break away again on increased offerings. Subsequently, the market became irregular, especially for pork, fluctuating frequently within a moderate range in response to the corresponding action of wheat, with the tendency downward. The buying of pork later on by a prominent broker, and the filling of a few orders that came in, caused a temporary reaction, but the tone of the market was weak, as it eased off again to a limited extent and closed near the inside prices of the day. Compared with last night, May pork is 27%c lower, May lard 15c lower and May ribs 15c lower.

Lamson Bros. & Co.'s Grain Letter. Lamwon Bros. & Co.'s Grain Letter. By Private Wire to J. C. Knox, Manager CHICAGO, January 17.—The low opening this morning brought out numerous buying orders, principally against "puts," causing an advance of ½c per bushel from the low point. The feeling, however, soon became easy, and the market remained very quiet for some time awaiting Bradstreet's report. Reports from India stated their crop was in a firm condition, with an increased acreage. Longs experienced considerable difficulty in disposing of their holdings on the advance without breaking the market, and it is stated that considerable wheat the advance without breaking the market, and it is stated that considerable wheat was bought in order to cause a strong feeling, so that certain holders could take advantage of it. In waiting for Bradstreet's report, it was the general impression that it would show a slight decrease in the world's visible, and the market seemed to be supported on this theory; but the popular and almost daily disappointment soon caused a sharp decline, as his figures, when posted, showed an increase. In the world's visible supply of 1,287,000 bushels, with an increase in the world's visible supply of adversace in Australia of 1,900,000, and a decrease afloat of 1,384,000 bushels. But after the effects of this passed away, the crowd viewed his report as rather ridulous, and the market became steady. The features were the premium of cash wheat over May in Minneapolis of 1c and the large exports, amounting to 525,000 bushels. The market for coarse grain was lower on the liquidation, but afterwards firmed up on some good local support.

Provisions have, been very weak. The supporting orders that were expected failed to arrive, and the market soon melted under the general selling.

WITH THE WEAPON HE HAD STOLEN.

Woman Who Stole Money Mr. Robinson Dangerously Hurt. Police Items of a Day.

Entirtly unique was the sensation created by Rufus Robinson's bold daylight robbery yesterday afternoon. He stole a pistol un-der the very eyes of the owner, fought his way out, and afterwards attempted to de-fend himself with the weapon he had stolen. Just about noon Rufus Robinson and nother negro stepped into the grocery store at the corner of Fraser and Hunter streets, kept by Mr. R. J. Baldwin. Mrs. Baldwin was alone in the store at the time, and one of the negroes occupied her attention by making some trifling purchase. The other stepped behind the showcase and taking out a fine revolver rushed out past Mrs. Baldwin and down the street.

Several people passing by the store saw him as he ran out, and followed in rapid pursuit. Once or twice the negro turned and, with the revolver drawn, made a feint as if he intended shooting his pursuers, but finding himself so closely ed rushed as fast as he could down Hunte

Wooten passed the store and was called in by Mrs. Baldwin. He heard her story and went after the negro, overtaking him in a few minutes. He found people surrounding a house on King street, under which the robber had taken refuge, but Robinson was keeping them at bay with the revolver he Detective Wooten ordered Robinson out, but the negro refused to come, and the officer dragged him out and took the pistol from him. Robinson was carried to police headquarters and locked up. For Shooting at a Woman.

noon to take action upon the recent appro-priation for the expenses of the police department for the year. It is hardly likely that the force will be increased by the ad-dition of more policemen, but those now at work will be retained. Nothing can be told until the commissioners get their heads to-gether and talk over the situation. Chief Connolly believes he had the figures close trimmed down in the estimate he sent to council, and does not think that more men can be added.

It was learned that the young man came to Atlanta, but what became of him after reaching the city is a mystery. Mr. Fullerton is exceedingly anx-Who Hit Robinson?

Mr. John Robinson, a butcher, whose place of business is on Hunter street, is lying at his home, near the corner of Hunter streets, in a critical condilying at his home, near the corner of Hunter and Grant streets, in a critical condition, the result of a dangerous wound in the head. Mr. Robinson was hurt in an encounter with a young man late Saturday night, and after the difficulty went to his home. He was in condition to walk around Sunday and Monday, but Tuesday he was unable to get out, and yesterday he was in a dangerous condition. Nothing is known at police headquarters of Mr. Robinson's assailant.

Henry L. Adair, a citizen of Dallas, Ga., came to Atlanta yesterday, sold his mule and accumulated a large and troublesome Jag. When the Jag assumed such proportions that Adair could no longer manage it, Patrolman Albert took charge of it and conducted Adair to police headquarters. In Adair's pockets quite a sum of money was found, which he said was the resuit of the sale of his mule. Of the amount $9$ was in counterfeit half-dollar coins. He said that the man who bought his mule passed the money on him. The detectives are working on the case, and hope to have the guilty man in hand before night.

R. S. Crutcher & Co., 87 and 89 Peachtree street, have scored another scoop. For the next two weeks they will make a special run on bedroom suits. This is an offer that should not be overlooked. Call and see what they are offering.

Among the Lower Classes of the far east superstition prevails to a great extent, even today. A common practice of parents (to ward off the effects of the "evil eye" from their children) is to haug around their necks a horn tipped with silver, suspended by a cord braided from the hair taken from a black mare's tafil. How much more evil (the evil of want) can be warded off, if every parent would deposit each week out of their earnings, a small sum for the benefit of their children, in the saving department of the Fidelity Bank in the Kiser building, and thereby provide for a "rainy day." jan 18-thur su. I consider "Smith's Worm Oil" the best worm medicine sold, it is infailible, never failing to bring the worms, and I always prescribe it in preference to anything else. It is a God-send to the public.

AT THE STATEHOUSE.

What Is Going on Among the Officials Who Hold Down the Offices of State. Governor Northen was able to be out and at his post of duty at the executive office yesterday after a brief illness.

The governor has his time pretty well occupied now with the work of signing pension checks for the widows of confederate soldiers of the state. There will be more than four thousand of these widows this year, and the governor has to write his name on the checks. This makes it no easy task, there being eight great books, o blank warrants on the treasury to be ernor but himself on these checks. There are some instances where the executive clerks may sign for the governor, but when

The pensions to the widows fall due the first day of February, and by that time the warrants will all be ready to be paid by Colonel Bob Hardeman. Captain Tip Harrison is busily engaged every day getting the pension blanks all made out properly As soon as the widows pensions are all paid the old soldiers will come in for theirs, and thus it is seen that the work of giving out the pension money of Georgia is no small job.

The Grain Crop This Year.

From farmers who were found in the office of Colonel R. T. Nesbitt, commissioner of agriculture, yesterday, it was learned that from general observation the grain crop in Georgia the coming season is going to be very fine. It is said that the farmers of the state have planted more early grain this year than usual.

The determination on the part of Georgia farmers to raise their own supplies is evident. Last year they raised enough to carry them through the coming year, and very little meat or meal will be shipped into the state this year.

The School Commissioners' Work.

The School Commissioners' Work. The reports from the county school commissioners of the state to Commissioner Bradwell show that the work of getting the public schools in shape for the coming year has been very successful up to date, and that the attendance will be good this year.

and that the attendance will be good this year.

The recent law of the general assembly authorizing the county boards of education to draw money for their services the days they are actually engaged in work for the educational interests of their respective counties, has given an impetus to the work of the boards and they are getting the educational affairs in all of the counties nicely under way. The members of these county boards will hereafter be paid $2 a day for the days they are regularly engaged in the service. This does not mean that the members will get very much money out of the business, but still, it makes them take more interest in the work than when it was all a labor of love and a tedious labor at that.

ty Assembly of Farmers' Alliance. Nothing definite is anown as to the nature of the business to come before the county assembly of the alliance today at the regular headquarters of the alliance. The meeting will be with closed doors as all of the alliance meetings are held, but it is thought that there will be enough on the outside to give a fair idea of what the is thought that there will be enough on the outside to give a fair idea of what the alliancemen are getting their heads together for this early in the political season. It is understood that the meeting of the executive committee of the people's party in Georgia held its meeting lay before yesterday for the purpose of deciding upon the date of holding a gubernatorial nominating convention for the people's party.

The meeting today will have much interest in it.

James Robinson, the athletic trainer at Princeton college, Princeton, N. J., says:

"I have found it imperative to have sure and simple remedies on hand in case of cuts, bruises, trains, sprains, colds, rheucuts, bruises, strains, sprains, colds, rheucuts, bruises, but found than too harsh and irritating. Allcock's Porous Plasters give almost instantaneous relief and their strengthening power is remarkable. In cases of weak back put two plasters on the small of the back and in a short time you will be capable of quite severe exercise. In 'sprint' and 'distance' races and jumping the muscles or tendons in the legs and feet sometimes weaken. This can invariably be relieved by cutting the plaster in narrow strips, so as to give free motion, and applying on muscles affected."

An Evil Trade.

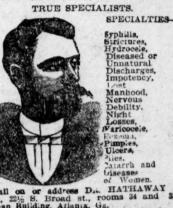

Danger to the Public from Misleading Advertisements of Bogus Medical Practioners.

Physicians now estimate that more than one out of every ten persons in this country suffer from some form of private disease peculiar to the sex. What renders it the greatest evil of our country is its deceitfulness—the stealthy character of its first appearance. No very serious results attending its first stages, the sufferer is semetimes unconclous of having a disease at all until he has it in the rooted chronic form. Of course, the proper step for any one detecting symptoms of the malady is to go at once to some trustworthy physicician. Dr. Hathaway & Co. are probably the best—that is to say, their system of treatment as genuine specialists is the system that is attended with the greates: certainly of a genuine cure. treatment as genuine specialists is the system that is attended with the greates: certainty of a genuine cure.

The trouble is that diseases peculiar to men and women are the most treacherous of all diseases. They will "possum" a cure—that is, they will seem to be cirred under aimost any kind of treatment. There are drugs and mixtures that will temporarily relieve or hide the bad symptoms and make the sufferer think that he is entirely recovered. That makes him grateful and he gives his advertising doctors a statement telling the world of their skill. Presently he discovers his mistake. He finds that his horrible disease, instead of being remedied and ended, has only been luiled to sleep like a toothache under opium. The disease has simply "possumed." And it is this deceitfulness of these diseases that offers such an opportunity for money-making to bogus "specialists." Any horse doctor—a physician without medical knowledge enough to treat a wart—can apply those wicked remedies and lull the sufferer into a bellef that he has been miraculously healed. Then, with dupes encugh, he can readily fill whole pages of newspapers with the statements of grateful "cured patients." Then, if the advertisement be sufficiently pretentious and misleading, dupes will continue to enter the trap till the imposition is publicly exploded and the authorities trade!

The proper course is to go to some regular reputable specialist, who, like Dr. Hathaway & Co., have for the last ten years been known to all and who, by their able, faithful and conscientious service, have won the respect and confidence of the entire community.

Mrs. Givens Shot While Asleep Yesterday Morning. HER HUSBAND TELEPHONES THE POLICE

And Is Afterwards Arrested for the Shooting-A Most Mysterious Tragedy. The Husband's Denial.

A case with all the elements of tragedy, of the mysterious midnight assassin variety, developed itself in police circles yesmorning, and has since been puzzling the investigative genius of the local detectives. A cool-mannered man rang the police station telephone about 9 o'clock and stated that his wife had been shot by some unknown midnight prowler. Two or three officers went out to the place designated by the man at the telephone, and when they returned they had in their custody the man who had so composedly telephoned information of the shooting.

The officers spent the remainder of the day investigating the case. It assumed all the hues of mystery as the investigation progressed, and the story told by the officers of the shooting last night discounted the cleverest detective stories. The man who telephoned to police headquarters about his wife being shot and who was afterwards arrested for doing the shooting is named William Givens. He has had a checkered and unhappy married career, and during the past few years has covered a large portion of American territory in his roamings. Givens has regarded Atlanta as his home for several years, although a great deal of his time has been spent in other states. He is about thirty-seven years old and has a wife living in this city. His married life has been far from happy. His temper was not congenial with that of his wife, and this caused much of his aimless wandering Only a few months ago he returned from a long stay in Colorado, having previously separated from his wife. Upon reaching the city he sought her out again and resumed his life with her. During the years of their separation the estrangement between them had grown greater than ever, and after a few weeks together their lives were made wretched by their former dif-

Mrs. Givens says that her husband was always jealous of her and frequently accused her of receiving visits from a wellknown physician, which insinuation she denounced as without foundation. This feeling of jealousy was a frequent source of trouble, and the Givens home, as may be imagined, was not one of peace and About 3 o'clock yesterday morning Mrs.

Givens was waked from a deep sleep by the loud report of a pistol in her room. She sprang up wildly, instantly awake. She screamed aloud and threw out her arms for her husband, whom she supposed to be and she screamed all the louder at finding herself alone and unprotected.

A second and a third pistol shot quickly followed, and Mrs. Givens felt a stinging sensation about her head. She fell back sensation about her head. She fell back upon her pillow, which was rapidly reddening with her own blood. She screamed loudly and tried to discover the source of the firing. The room was densely dark, and she could see nothing. She heard the voice of her husband a few feet away calling to hear not to be friethered and not to screen. her not to be frightened and not to scream She fell back upon her pillow exhausted and begging for mercy. Her husband made t light, and very much excited, walked over her side and discovered that she was shot.

and after daylight went in search of a physician. A physician was found and went with Givens to the cottage, which is located in the row of cottages at the Exposition cotton mills, No. 99.

It was not until 9 o'clock that Givens telephoned to the police. Officers Barrett and Bone placed him under arrest, and carried him to police headquarters, suspecting him of having done the shooting. Givens protest-ed his innocence, and said he was awaken-ed by the shots. He sprang out of bed at the sound of the first shot, and could distinctly see that some one was firing through the window from the outside. He tried to shield himself from the flying bullets, and not until the firing ceased did he make any noise. Then he called to his wife, admonishing her to quiet herself and stop screaming. He says he made a thorough investigation after daylight, and found footprints under the window and also found where a horse had been techered just outside his gate. He announced the theory that some assassin had creft to the window to kill him, intending to make his escape on horseback after the deed was done. The motive for the killing, he believed to be jealousy. Mrs. Givens indicated to the officers her belief that her husband had done the shooting. She felt morally certain of it, although the evidence was mainly circumstantial. She was suffering too much from her wound to ing her to quiet herself and stop screaming.

was suffering too much from her wound to was suffering too much from her wound to make a full statement to the officers. Officer Bone believes there is no doubt of Givens's guilt. He says he carefully measured the feotprints beneath the window and compared the measurement with the dimensions of Givens's feet, and the two correspond exactly. He also accurately measured the heaves tracks in the vard and two correspond exactly. He also accurately measured the horse tracks in the yard and afterwards measured the feet of a horse in Mr. Ennis's lot which adjoins Givens's home, and to his surprise found that the feet and the tracks were of the same size exactly. Officer, Bone says he thinks that Givens took the horse out of the lot and tied it outside his gate, intending to make his exerce on it of the little his write.

An exhaustive search was made for the hister but it was not found. Givens was locked up on a charge of assault with intent to murder, and if Mrs. Givens dies it will be changed to a more serious charge. He has employed Mr. E. M. Mitchell to defend him.

WHAT WOMEN CAN DO.

It Is Proposed to Erect a Magnificent Home in This City. A beautiful home for the women of Geor-gia, provided with all the appointments that are needed for her comfort, and illustrating both the art and literature of her sex, will shortly be erected in this city. Though only mooted yesterday, the proposition has already acquired the assurance of an actual fact. When the women of Atlanta put their heads together and undertake to do a thing their enterprise is usually in league with prophecy and the future is cted in the instant.

The movement grows out of a meeting of the Woman's Co-operative Club and forges a new link in the chain of developments leading up to the Cotton States and Inter-national Exposition, to be held in Atlanta in the fall of 185

The books of the club indicated a membership of 279, representing every denomination, creed and geographical division of the city. As to the finances of the club the statement of the treasurer revealed a comforable sum of money in the bank, after subtracting all of the needed expenditures for making the rooms attractive and tures for making the rooms attractive and

It is not invidious to observe, in this connection, that no organization which has recently been started in this city has had a more devoted object, or made with a few months a more delightful record, in the way of fruitful and permanent results, than the Woman's Co-operative Club. They deserve the hearty congratulations of all who love and honor womanhood.

the heartiest co-operation of the women of Atlanta be extended. A resolution to this effect was introduced. It was further re-solved that a committee be appointed to petition the directors for the luncheon privileges of the grounds. The proceeds arising from this source will be applied to the erection of a home to be set apart for the wo-men of Georgia. This home will be devoted men of Georgia. This home will be devoted to all that pertains to the fair sex and the cause of her protection will be happily embodied in a home of which every woman in Georgia will be proud.

"WHEN PATTI SANG."

Mr. L. P. Hills at the Christian Association Tonight.

FIRST MEETING OF THE NEW YEAR

An Important Amendment to the Constitution Providing for the Election of Directors by the Membership.

"When Patti Sang" is the latest amusing nit of Atlanta's versatile genius, Mr. L. P. Tonight, at the Young Men's Christian Association, in his own original way, Mr

Hills has consented to recite this charming little travesty. No reader of his own productions has nade a more unique impression on the public heart than Mr. Hills, and his friends, in a most astonishing progression, seem to e multiplying every day. The occasion tonight will be the first regular meeting of the association for the year. It is earnestly desired that a ful attendance should be on hand, as very important business relative to the work of the

The meeting will be called to order promptly at 8 o'clock. An Important Change Proposed. An important resolution will be acted upon by the members tonight, and one which, to a certain extent, will modify the present methods of the association.

The resolution embodies an amendment to the constitution in the matter of supply-ing vacancies on the board of directors. Heretofore, under the constitution as adopted several years ago, the vacancies on the board have been supplied by the action of that body. The members, however, desire to amend the constitution in such a way that the membership of the associa-tion will have the deciding voice in all matters of this kind.

This is the plan adopted in nearly all of the Christian associations of the Duntry. Six Directors to Be Elected. The terms of six of the directors of the Young Men's Christian Association expire by limitation this month.

These directors are Messrs. W. Woods White, W. H. Burton, John K. Ottley, W. H. Patterson, Albert Howell and S. B.

As there are no candidates in the field pending the action of the meeting tonight, it is probable, in the event the amendment is adopted, that the same directors will be re-elected. The terms of the other directors expire next year and the year following. next year and the year following.

Those who go out next year are Messrs, W. A. Hemphill, D. E. Luther, A. E. Wheeler, Dr. R. K. Boland, H. T. Inman and W. S. Bell.

The last of the present board to retire will go out of office in January, 1896, They are Messrs, J. F. Beck, Dr. G. G. Roy, B. J. King, T. J. Leftwich and Dr. F. W. Mc-Rae.

With one or two exceptions the present board is one of the best that has ever managed the affairs of the association.

The other officers are: General secretary, Mr. E. L. Mathews; assistant secretary, W. S. Megginson; physical director, J. J. Shafer; general secretary railroad department W. A. Waggerers ment, W. A. Waggoner. THE GRANT.
